

Sheikdom buying fighter jets

By FRED S. HODFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A small Persian Gulf sheikdom, which struck it rich in oil in recent years, is buying about $80 million worth of advanced jet fighters from France, according to U.S. intelligence sources.

Abu Dhabi's purchase of 32 Mirages makes no military sense to American officials.

Allied with six other little emirates, Abu Dhabi has a border dispute with Saudi Arabia. But nobody here thinks that Abu Dhabi, population about 80,000, would chance war with Saudi Arabia, population 7 million-plus.

One U.S. official said Abu Dhabi may be "trying to demonstrate its sovereignty."

But others said "they've got the money so they want to buy some of this, some of that — like out of a mail order catalogue."

According to recent intelligence reports, Abu Dhabi has bought 18 Mirage III interceptors which are to be delivered in two years. This order comes on top of an earlier buy of 14 Mirage V ground attack planes, due to be completed this year.

Since Abu Dhabi has no competent jet pilots and mechanics of its own, U.S. officials said, the Mirages will be flown and maintained by members of the Pakistani Air Force for at least several years.

Meanwhile, Abu Dhabi is reported to have agreed to place its Mirage jets at the disposal of Pakistan in event of an emergency there. This arrangement may disturb India, Pakistan's rival in south Asia.

U.S. experts said Abu Dhabi's armed forces, numbering only about 8,000 men, are officered by British, Jordanian and Pakistani military men, mostly retired from their own services.

The French, who have been hustling to sell arms to increasingly rich oil producing states, have been reported selling 36 Mirages to Saudi Arabia.

The United States has been trying to compete with the French in arms sales to major Persian Gulf nations, but officials said this country is opposed to equipping small states like Abu Dhabi with sophisticated weapons, which one U.S. source called "expensive and dangerous toys."

Over the past two years, the United States has sold Abu Dhabi less than $1 million worth of small arms — "a few revolvers and weapons like that, but nothing of any significance," was the way one official described those sales.

Abu Dhabi and the other small Persian Gulf states formed a confederation called the United Arab Emirates two years ago after the British withdrew. Together, their populations total about 200,000.

They had been generally ignored until oil was discovered in some of them in the early 1960s.

Before the Arab oil cutback growing out of the Mideast war, Abu Dhabi produced 1.4 million barrels a day. By next year, U.S. oil experts predict, its wells will be pumping up to 2.5 million barrels a day.

10-gallon gas limit established

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy chief William E. Simon said today that oil companies and independent distributors have agreed to set a limit of 10 gallons of gasoline per customer at service stations.

Simon also predicted that gasoline prices will increase over the next month or two, to levels about 8 to 11 cents higher than in early December.

Simon told a news conference his price estimates, increased from his estimate of about seven cents last week, took account of a new set of gasoline price hikes to be authorized Feb. 1.

Simon said the new increases would come as a variable formula designed to give service station owners partial compensation for the reduced amounts of gasoline they can sell, as gasoline production is cut under federal regulations.

Simon has already ordered creation of a standby gasoline rationing program but has deferred until later a decision whether to put it into effect.

He has also asked the public to limit its gasoline purchases voluntarily to 10 gallons per week.

Today's announcement of agreement with the distributors marks a further tightening of gasoline controls, although still on a voluntary basis.

Simon said major oil companies and independent distributors and retailers have agreed to encourage a policy limiting service station gasoline sales to 10 gallons per customer.

He said the companies could enforce this as company policy at the service stations it owns directly but could only urge it upon franchised service stations.

The sales limit, if enforced, would still leave a motorist free to drive on and purchase another 10 gallons at the next service station, but as gasoline supplies dwindle, waiting lines may discourage this tactic.

Simon reported that gasoline consumption was running some 7.8 per cent below normal demand forecasts over the four weeks ending Dec. 21. This was an improvement in fuel saving from the 5.7 per cent reported the week earlier, but still far short of the 20 per cent gasoline reduction now believed necessary, he said.

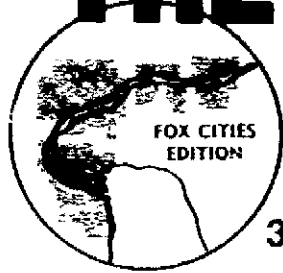

Simon said several factors would combine to push average gasoline prices even higher than previously predicted over the next several weeks.

One obvious factor is the recent round of steep price increases on foreign oil, led by a doubling of the price of Arab oil late last month.

In addition, a new price increase of 1.5 cent per gallon was granted retailers on Jan. 1, to take into account for the first

Kuwait moves to nationalize oil

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Kuwait has reached agreement with two major Western oil companies for a 60 per cent government takeover of their operations, a Kuwaiti official said today.

The Persian Gulf state's defense and interior minister, Sheikh Saad el Abdullah, said in an interview with the Beirut newspaper An Nahar that the agreement affects the Gulf Oil Corp. of Pittsburgh and British Petroleum. He said it will soon be introduced into parliament and will leave the door open for total nationalization within five years.

Gulf and BP jointly own the Kuwait Oil Co., which produces more than 90 per cent of Kuwait's crude oil.

The Kuwait parliament, which last year rejected an agreement that would have given Kuwait an initial 25 per cent ownership expanding to 51 per cent by 1982, has recently been pressing for total nationalization of foreign oil interests.

"The negotiated agreement preserves the government's right to raise gradually its participation share to 70, 80, 90 or 100 per cent by 1979," Saad said.

"This means the bill to be introduced into parliament would stipulate complete nationalization when technical crews and experience in management, drilling, prospecting and marketing are insured," the sheik added.

Saad did not say how and where the negotiations with the companies were conducted, but previous reports in the Kuwaiti press said BP and Gulf Oil executives had been in Kuwait for at least three weeks.

Both companies denied last month they had agreed to a 60 per cent participation by Kuwait. The government described such reports at the time as "premature."

The nationalization bill tabled before the 50-man Kuwait parliament in December by a leftist group of members still is on the parliament agenda.

It provides for a "fair and just compensation" for the companies in return for their concessions, equipment, assets and other belongings.

Saad said the government bill would provide for "assessing the company's belongings at their present depreciated value at the basis of which compensation for the 60 per cent share would be calculated."

He said the bill would be presented as a rival to the outright nationalization bill. "The final verdict is for parliament to hand down," he added.

U.S. force is reduced

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Sources said today the United States has been quietly withdrawing nearly 4,000 more troops from Thailand, reducing its force in the country to about 35,000 men by the end of the week.

The report was confirmed by Gen. Kriengsak Chamanand, deputy chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, who said the Thai defense ministry probably would make an announcement Friday.

The sources also said the Americans were shipping home about 25 EB66 electronic warfare jets from the Korat Air Base 165 miles northeast of Bangkok. The plane was used in Vietnam for electronic surveillance and jamming enemy radars.

The United States had almost 44,000 troops — most of them Air Force personnel — in Thailand when the U.S. Congress ended American bombing in Cambodia in August. In late August and September, it reduced the force to about 39,000 men and 600 planes, but in September the Thai government said the withdrawal was being suspended because of the military and political situation in Indochina.

Most of the personnel withdrawn since were reported to be ground personnel whose places have been taken by Thais.

The reduction in American forces was not believed to have any connection with the overthrow of the Thai military regime in October. The civilian government that took over has showed no desire to end the U.S. presence, and the new defense minister, Air Marshal Dawee Chullasapaya, is considered a friend of the United States.

Benefits bill to be signed

SAN CLEMENTE (AP) — Despite some misgivings President Nixon is ready to sign into law an 11 per cent increase in Social Security benefits.

Although Nixon was known to feel that the timing of the hikes would have an adverse effect on the federal budget, aides indicated he would sign the measure today and issue a statement citing some of his objections. Nixon had to act on the bill by midnight or it would die by pocket veto.

The bill would increase the average monthly payment for a retired individual from $161 to $181 and for a couple from $276 to $310.

The President signed a number of major bills Wednesday including a $73.7 billion defense appropriations act. This was $2.9 billion less than the administration had requested. The bulk of the reduction — $2.1 billion — was in procurement funds appropriated at $18.4 billion.

Nixon also signed a bill increasing by $575 million the total amount of loans and guarantees that the Small Business Administration can make before June 30. The same measure retroactively reopens the Agriculture Department's easement loan program for rural residences damaged in disasters that occurred between Dec. 26, 1972 and April 20, 1973.

Finally, Nixon signed legislation to encourage state adoption of maximum state speed limits of 55 miles per hour and to reorganize seven bankrupt Northeastern railroads with the help of $300 million in federal subsidies and $1.5 billion in loan guarantees.

The Social Security legislation also raises the wage base — the amount of annual earnings subject to tax from $10,800 of 1973 to $13,200 in 1974. Under previous law, it was scheduled to be $12,600 in 1974.

The maximum tax paid each by the worker and employer in 1973, $631.80, will be $772.20 in 1974.

The 5.85 per cent rate paid by the worker and employer in 1973 will not be changed in 1974.

The first benefit boost will be 7 per cent, set for the March check due April 3, with the other 4 per cent coming in the June check payable July 3. Some 30 million Americans now receive Social Security payments.

The Social Security Administration said it might not be able to pay the 7 per cent hike in the March check since it requires about four months to switch its computers.

In that event, the increase probably would first be reflected in the April check due May 3, with a retroactive payment for March.

The minimum payment for an individual will be raised from $84.50 to $93.80. The maximum will go up from $274 to $304 for an individual, from $411 to $456 for a couple.

Stock market up

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market surged today in the wake of the Federal Reserve Board's decision to lower the amount of cash investors must put up to buy stocks on credit.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks jumped 20.37 points to 875.69 in the first half hour of trading, and advancing issues swamped those declining by a 12-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Federal Reserve action, announced late Wednesday, lowered the minimum permissible down payment for credit purchases of most major stocks in this country from 65 to 50 per cent of the total purchase price of the stock.

Stock exchanges, brokerage houses and other securities organization remain free to impose stricter limits on the down payment, or margin, if they wish.

Analysts said the step had potential appeal for both the smaller and the venturesome investor. With loosened credit requirements, they noted, an investor can buy more stock with a given amount of cash and thus have greater leverage on his capital.

"The news caught everyone by surprise and there's been a violent upside reaction," said Larry Wachel at Bache & Co., one of Wall Street's biggest brokerage houses. "When you get a surprise news development, the market always responds violently."

Killing of Georgia family of 6 detailed in trial

DONALSONVILLE, Ga. (AP) — A special prosecutor today urged jurors to "use your common south Georgia walking-about sense" and convict Carl Isaacs of murder in the slayings of six members of a rural family.

"Are you going to let a whole family be killed and we aren't going to do anything about it?" prosecutor Peter Zack Geer, a former lieutenant governor of Georgia, asked the jurors.

Isaacs, 19, an escapee from the Poplar Hills, Md., correctional camp, faces a possible death penalty if convicted in the May 14 slaying of six members of the Ned Alday family. Two others who escaped with Isaacs are scheduled to go on trial for the slayings next week.

Earlier, the chief prosecution witness, Isaacs' 16-year-old brother, described the execution-style killings. Isaac's trial was to go to the jury today after closing arguments.

During his summation on Wednesday, prosecutor Alto Lee of Dothan, Ala., told the jury the "circumstances of the murders showed an abandoned and malignant heart."

His comments came after young Billy Isaacs' prosecution testimony and after defense attorney Bobby Hill of Savannah rested Carl Isaacs' case without calling a single witness.

Murder charges against Billy Isaacs

were dropped last week after he pleaded guilty to charges of burglary and armed robbery, all in connection with the Alday slayings.

The youth testified that five male members of the Alday family were killed singly or in pairs as they entered the mobile home and that the wife of one was raped and then slain.

Killed were Ned Alday, 62; his brother, Aubrey, 57; Ned's sons, Jerry, 35, Chester, 32, and Jimmy, 25; and Jerry's wife, Mary, 26.

Each was shot from one to seven times in the back of the head.

Billy said his brother and Wayne Coleman, 26, and George Dungee, 35, had picked him up in Baltimore County, Md., after their escape. Coleman is a half-brother of the Isaacs.

He said no one was in Jerry Alday's mobile home when they entered it May 14 to search for guns, money and clothes.

Billy testified that Ned and Jerry Alday were the first to arrive at the mobile home. He said they were robbed at gunpoint, then "Carl took the younger man in the back bedroom and Wayne

Girl held as gun smuggler in extremist group

LONDON (AP) — An 18-year-old American girl and two men arrested here for arms smuggling belonged to an extremist student group headquartered at Santa Barbara, Calif., security sources said today.

The girl, who was arrested at a London airport Saturday when customs officials found guns and ammunition in her luggage, was identified by the U.S. Embassy as Allison Thompson of Santa Barbara.

The others were identified by sources as Atler Naseen, 21, of Pakistan, and Abdelkhir Hakaoui, 25, of Morocco, both previously involved in student politics in Santa Barbara.

Earlier British authorities said they believed the three were connected with an Arab guerrilla cell assigned to attack British Zionists. Officials dropped this theory after further investigation, but gave no explanation.

The sources said Hakaoui was leader of the group which apparently planned to attack Moroccan diplomats or property after gathering in London. There was no apparent link with known Arab guerrilla groups, the sources said.

Scotland Yard has imposed a security blackout on the case, declining even to officially identify the three pending a decision on whether they will stand trial or be deported.

But the sources said the FBI is seeking two other students in the United States, who canceled a trip to London after the arrests here.

A decision on whether the three will stand trial in Britain or be deported to

The group was discovered amid a national security alert for Arab terrorists who were believed planning a concerted attack against targets in Britain.

The girl arrived at Heathrow Airport Saturday on a flight from Los Angeles carrying five machine pistols and 150 rounds of ammunition in her luggage, police said. Scotland Yard had been tipped off by United States officials, but they delayed their arrest until she contacted the Moroccan on an airport bus.

A Yard spokesman said the arrests were kept secret until Wednesday because detectives hoped to nab more accomplices arriving from Los Angeles. But only the Pakistani flew in Monday, and any others were apparently warned away.

The assistant manager of "Mr. Lloyd's," a Santa Barbara restaurant where Miss Thompson worked for a year, said she was fired because her friendship with an Arab man about 30 years old was interfering with her work.

Ben Crawford said he believed the girl was born in Santa Barbara and had been reared either there or someplace in Oregon.

Dollar gains in Europe

LONDON (AP) — The United States dollar climbed to a record high against the British pound today and rose sharply against other European currencies for the second straight day.

Gold rose $3.50 to $121 an ounce, its highest price in five months. But this was below its record high of $130 an ounce last June 5.

Dealers attributed the continuing increase in the price of gold to a widespread belief that the Arab oil nations might demand payment for their oil exports in gold rather than foreign currencies.

They said the dollar's strength was based on indications that the United States, because of its sizable domestic production of oil, would suffer least among the major nations from the recent sharp increases in oil prices.

The pound opened today at $2.2845, an all-time low, after closing Wednesday at $2.3050. Its previous low was recorded on Dec. 11, when it slumped to $2.3070 under pressure of the still unresolved labor disputes in the coal mines and on the railroads.

The pound was firm, however, against European currencies.

The dollar rose nearly 4 pfennigs in Frankfurt, buying 2.7940 marks after closing Wednesday at 2.7550.

Children solve mechanics

"I was trying to get one of those child-proof safety caps off an aspirin bottle the other day when my youngest grabbed it out of my hands, gave it a twist and... voila, instant aspirin."

"How did you do that?" I asked.

"There's nothing to it," he said. "It won't come off until you point this little knob into this space. You want me to show you how again?"

"No," I said irritably.

"It's not your fault, Mom," he comforted. "You're probably an underachiever."

"That's not true," I said defensively. "I'm just an adult trying to grow up in a child-gear world." As he stood there stuffing the cotton back in the bottle, I added, "Everything they manufacture has a child in mind."

"You mean like the parking meter that you couldn't figure out where you put your nickel?"

"Right. Only a child could know that the slot was on top in plain view with an arrow and the word coin stamped on it."

"I guess so," he hesitated.

"And what about catsup in a restaurant. Did you ever wonder why a child is the only one who can get it out of the bottle? Children are the only ones who are born knowing where the volume button on a stereo is located, and I've never known a child who couldn't operate a vendor's machine selling anything with a blindfold on."

"Is that why you only go to a self-service gas station when I'm along?"

"I could learn how to do it in a minute, but basically they're planned for children. Why, did you know that the first long distance direct-dial phone call was completed by a 2½-year-old child without directory assistance?" He shook his head. "And that with every adult game you have to take a child to interpret the rules?"

"All I know," he shrugged, "is that you can't work a stamp machine, a tape recorder, a drinking fountain or the night deposit slot at the bank. I worry about you," he said, "What are you going to do after I'm grown — rent-a-kid?"

"Don't be smart," I snapped.

"I'm serious," he said. "Who's going to open your aspirin bottles for you when I'm grown?"

"I don't plan on headaches after you are grown," I said. (Copyright 1973)

AN OPEN LETTER TO OUR MANY CUSTOMERS:

Laydwell Floors has aided in the formation of an independent floor covering installation firm to assure complete customer satisfaction, fast and prompt installation, and quality workmanship at the lowest possible price.

Effective October 1, 1973, Laydwell Floors assisted in the formation of a new Valley service firm whose sole purpose is to install floor coverings promptly and efficiently. Called ROBERTS PROFESSIONAL INSTALLERS, the new organization is headed by Dan Roberts, Laydwell's installation foreman for over 20 years. The new firm's mechanics are all Laydwell-trained, known and respected throughout the Valley.

A.) Prompt Installation — Under this new arrangement, Laydwell has a formal contractual agreement with ROBERTS to receive first priority on the installation of all floor coverings (carpet, tile, etc.) sold by Laydwell. The installation crews, as a separate business, now have a positive incentive to install each job without any delay. Proof of this efficiency is the absence of any delay in installation dates — customers get their purchase installed when they choose.

B.) Quality of Workmanship — Although final responsibility for the sale and installation of a floor covering purchase still remains with Laydwell, the individual mechanic is now directly accountable for the quality of his installation work. Since he is in business for himself, a call-back to correct unsatisfactory work is not desirable. Proof of this aspect is the recent dramatic drop in the number of customer call-backs.

C.) Reasonable, Accurate Pricing — Since the new ROBERTS firm took over the installation of all Laydwell floor covering sales, each Laydwell customer now receives an accurate, pre-figured installation cost figure to assure a competitive bid. Installation is figured in advance by the yard, with no hidden or buried costs appearing later to inflate the bill.

Ann Landers

Hubby hangs on telephone

Dear Ann Landers: You have printed several letters from husbands complaining about wives who talk incessantly on the telephone, but so far nothing has appeared from women whose husbands have "black cord fever." Well, here's one—and I can't believe it's your first.

My husband sits down at the telephone the minute he comes home from work. He calls his folks, his two sisters and his aunt, just to see how they are. Sometimes he calls his brother in Rome—that's Italy, not Georgia. Then he calls friends and people he barely knows, to ask, "What's up?" This goes on every night of his life. I have to drag him off the phone to get him to eat supper. One night last week he talked on the phone for four hours. I clocked him.

There's got to be something wrong with a guy who does that much telephoning. Why is he so chatty? Maybe if I understood it, it wouldn't bug me so much.—The Witness

Dear Wit: He's more than "chatty," dear, he's compulsive.

Does he ever talk to you? That might be a good place to tackle the problem.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son married a lovely girl last week. The bride and groom invited about 50 single friends plus 10 young married couples to the wedding. (Many did not R.S.V.P.) We invited 80 friends and relatives. The bride's family invited 75.

The day was a disaster. Dozens of young people we didn't even know showed up. Several single fellows brought dates—and even couples! The bride's mother was a wreck. Some of the "drop-ins" looked unbelievably tacky and behaved as if they had never been around free food before. The buffet was devoured in less than an hour. I saw several "guests" eat four pieces of wedding cake. Of course, there wasn't enough to go around. The bar bill was beyond belief.

Our son seemed unconcerned. The bride thought it was "like cool." In retrospect, what could have been done to avoid such unpleasantness? We have a daughter who will be married next year. Any suggestions?—Appalled

Dear A.: A card should be inserted in the invitation envelope saying, "Please present at the door. Invited guests only will be admitted." It's awful to have to do this, but people must protect themselves as best they can.

Guests who fail to respond to the R.S.V.P. should be phoned and asked, "Yes or no?" If they are embarrassed because of their sloppiness, so what? They deserve to be.

Dear Ann Landers: Tonight my 17-year-old sister was fired. She was a waitress in a cafe and had the job for over a year. I work in the same place and witnessed the reason she was fired. We'd like your opinion as to whether or not it was justified.

It was 10 minutes before closing and Sally was hurrying with a plate of food. A young man (pretty drunk) popped up from the bar stool and poked Sally in the breast in a teasing way. She squished the plate of food right in his face. The boss came running over and fired her on the spot. What do you think?—Sister

Dear Sister: I think your sister was startled and lost her balance. After all, a girl does not expect such behavior. Accidents do happen, and the boss should rehire your sister at once.

It's not always easy to recognize love, especially the first time around. Acquaint yourself with the guidelines. Read Ann Landers's booklet, "Love or Sex and How to Tell the Difference." For a copy, mail 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654.

Opening lead — ♣ K

West opened the king of clubs. South refused the first trick as a matter of principle but won the second club with the ace.

Declarer then ran the five diamonds, discarding a club from his hand. West saw that South would win six tricks in clubs and diamonds combined and that he would need three tricks in spades and hearts. Obviously, South would have to try a finesse in one suit or the other.

When the fourth diamond was led, West calmly discarded the six of spades, blanking his king. On the fifth diamond, West discarded the three of hearts.

FINESSE LOSES
South then decided to try the heart finesse. This lost, and West took the rest of the clubs, defeating the contract.

West couldn't beat the contract by discarding a club, since then declarer could afford to give up a heart and three clubs. West could save his clubs only by blanking one of the kings, and this he did with great aplomb.

Nobody saw that South had "blown" a cold contract. South should win only three diamonds—with the ace, king and jack. Then he should lead a club, allowing West to take his tricks. After finishing with the clubs, West would have to lead a spade or a heart, and either lead would give South a free finesse. Then, and only then, South could go on with the fourth and fifth diamonds.

Connally's political future becoming cloudy

DALLAS—The lethal side effects of Watergate are undercutting the six-month-old political marriage between John B. Connally and the Texas Republican party, further dimming Connally's presidential prospects for 1976.

Thanks largely to the Watergate scandal, Connally has been unable to lead either his personal organization or the state's conservative businessmen into the Republican party. Moreover, relations between Connally and state leaders of his new party, while cordial, are at arm's length.

Connally, his presidential possibilities declining since being passed over by President Nixon for Vice President, must have solid home-state support. But prominent Texas Republicans say privately Connally must earn such support, by either leading the state party to some 1974 victories or significantly expanding its ranks.

Republican party at low ebb
Unfortunately for Connally, the reason behind such demands is the same reason why he probably cannot satisfy them: the Texas Republican party is at its lowest ebb since 1964. Although President Nixon overwhelmingly carried Dallas County in 1972, for example, Nixon supporters are in short supply here today. In post-Watergate Dallas, Republican fund-raising and candidate recruitment have dried up.

It no longer seems inevitable that conservative Texas Democrats will one day become Republicans. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, a moderate Democrat, is today the state's most prestigious politician. Gov. Dolph Briscoe, another moderate Democrat, is highly popular running a dull, caretaker administration.

Businessmen here thank Democratic national chairman Robert Strauss, still another Texas moderate, for making his party more acceptable to them now that the Republican party is so unappetizing.

Connally is thus the principal Republican asset in Texas. But Republicans grow impatient. "I heard all about Big John bringing his friends along with him," a Republican legislator told us, "but I haven't seen anybody yet."

Indeed, Connally's closest political associates, though personally devoted to him, are not becoming Republicans—not after Watergate certainly. On the contrary, conservative ex-Congressman Joe Kilgore, a longtime Connally ally, has moved into the Democratic mainstream as a member of Gov. Briscoe's kitchen cabinet. Connally intimates George Christian and Larry Temple, both White House aides in LBJ days, remain Democrats.

'Aren't our kind of people'
Nor do these tory Democrats mix well with Texas Republicans. One old Connally lieutenant who attended the Republican fund-raiser in Dallas Dec. 13 honoring Connally confides he felt out of place. When his wife told him, "These aren't our kind of people," he replied this was probably his last Republican function. Such tory Democrats were displeased that night by Connally's fulsome praise of Mr. Nixon and, more galling, Republican Sen. John Tower.

Connally's relations with the Texas Republican apparatus are brittle. Although the state party schedules Connally's out-of-state appearances, Republican executive director Brad O'Leary has failed to get the absolute control over Connally's schedule that the California Republican party has over Gov. Ronald Reagan's (though Texas Republicans are certainly not offering Connally authority over them to match Reagan's).

All such quibbling would cease if Connally could engineer Republican victories here in 1974. But when Connally emissaries discreetly asked his old political lieutenants whether they would back Republican national chairman George Bush (who has since bowed out) against Briscoe for governor, they received this reply: "We will back John Connally any time for any office under any party label, but we support Briscoe for governor against any Republican."

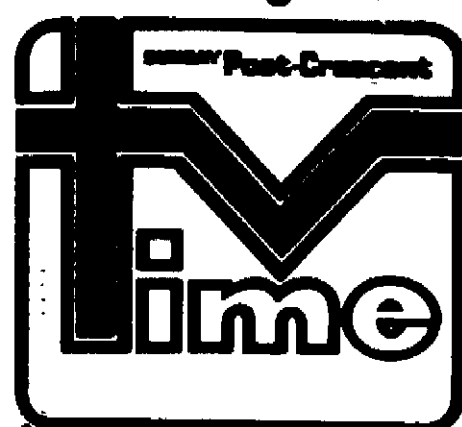

Feel chances are remote
Their attitude might be shaped by the feeling that chances for Connally winning the Republican presidential nomination, once considered inevitable here, are now remote. Intimates say Connally himself considers this pessimism exaggerated but is not unhappy being an underdog for now.

Some politicians who know Connally well feel he is committed to a serious bid for President in 1976. Those closest to him, however, report he blows hot and cold. When Republican audiences greet him with enthusiasm, he is ready to run; when the Senate Watergate committee tries (unsuccessfully, so far) to implicate him in the milk-fund scandal, he grumbles that politics just isn't worth the ordeal these days. In the meantime, he does nothing about building an embryonic campaign staff.

For all of these difficulties, Connally is still unsurpassed as a platform spellbinder and backroom persuader. He will need those talents, considering his wobbly political base here.

Debris and rats

Rats live in the unsightly lumber piles around this old farmstead being razed at Gillett Street and Wisconsin Avenue, neighbors complain. The open basement is littered with debris. Rusty nails protrude from the old lumber. The city health department said it has received one complaint of rats in the area. A neighbor said he has been trapping the rodents, which migrate to his house at night. The rats were not there before the razing began, he said. The city inspector's office has received no complaints. Normally if a razing job drags, a spokesman said, his office steps in. Records show that William Van Offeren was given a razing permit Oct. 18. The property is owned by Leo Griesbach of Appleton, city officials said. (Post-Crescent photo)

Bus subsidy passes $82,000

The city has paid $82,146 in subsidies to Appleton City Transit, Inc., for the first 11 months of 1973.

The figure surpasses the original 1973 budget estimate of $81,000 for the full, 12-month deficit, but it falls considerably short of the $94,362 projected operating deficit for the bus line that was included in the city's recent application for state operating deficit subsidies.

Finance Director Reynold Running now estimates that the final 1973 figure will fall short of that. If the December deficit payment is around $9,000 — as expected — the 1973 total city subsidy to the private bus operation will be about $91,000.

Subsidy payments for October ($12,501) and November ($9,026) were approved Wednesday by the City Council.

The city subsidy already paid to the subsidiary of Fox River Bus Lines, Inc., for 1973 is about what it will be paid for all of 1974, if anticipated state funding of $98,389 comes through.

The projected total operating deficit for next year for the city bus operation is $180,771. If the $98,389 the city is seeking from the state is approved, only $82,382 will have to be picked up by the city.

The city started making subsidy payments to the private bus company in January, 1972. For the first eight months of that year, the city paid a total of $2,000 per month, or $6,000.

After the state Public Service Commission turned down the bus company's petition to discontinue service in September, 1972, the city began covering the entire bus company operating deficit.

For the final four months of 1972, that totaled $25,438, bringing the total city subsidy to the bus company in 1972 to $41,438.

The operating deficit for September, 1972, was $8,128. That compares with $8,613 in 1973.

The subsidy for October, 1973 jumped considerably over the 1972 figure, however. It climbed from $7,058 to $12,151.

The primary reasons for the large increase were the new buses and more frequent service instituted by the bus line starting Oct. 1, 1973. Runs were made every half-hour instead of every hour.

Many in city hall unhappy over pay

BY FRANK CHURCH
Post-Crescent staff writer

A majority of Appleton government department heads are dissatisfied with the way their salaries are set, and many of them would like a chance to talk with Mayor James Sutherland about their 1974 wages before "reading about it in The Post-Crescent."

That's what Assessor George Schwarzbauer told the mayor in a letter today, after Sutherland has already invited written suggestions from department heads on this year's salaries but before the salaries have been adopted by the City Council.

Personnel Director David Bill, who is supposed to team with Finance Director Reynold Running to draft a proposed salary schedule for department heads and other non-union city hall employees, said he should have a plan to the mayor's office Friday or early next week.

The non-union salary schedule covers over 60 city hall employees, ranging from part-time secretarial help to department heads.

Several weeks ago, some aldermen promised to seek higher salaries for some department heads after the city agreed to hire a new park supervisor at $15,200.

That, however, followed an Oct. 11 letter from Sutherland to all department heads which said department personnel would be given a "flat percentage pay increase" in 1974, "with exceptions granted only for very unusual cases."

Sutherland invited written comments and suggestions from department heads who felt that they or some of their non-union employees should get bigger raises or some other salary or fringe benefit changes. Sutherland said today he received about ten responses.

In response to Schwarzbauer's request for a chance to get his point across to the salary setters before the salaries are set, Sutherland said "this has been a concern of mine" for a long time. His Oct. 11 letter, however, and the response he got to it, have convinced Sutherland that "we've done a pretty good job of providing for that (communication) this year."

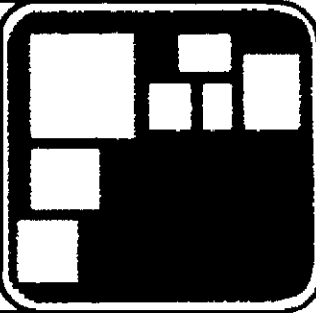

Swarzbauer was not one of the ten who responded to the mayor with written suggestions to the Oct. 11 letter.

Swarzbauer said in his letter to the Jurisdictional debate goes on

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent staff writer

The long-running saga of which committee has jurisdiction over the courthouse buildings continued this morning with a face-to-face meeting between Supv. Nick Karras, chairman of the property, building and maintenance committee, and the judiciary and enforcement committee.

Supv. Fred Rehfeldt, chairman of the judiciary committee, has claimed complete jurisdiction based on a transcript of the last April county board proceedings, while the board minutes show the jurisdiction was split between the two committees.

In the meantime, county officials have bounced from one committee to the other, depending on the mood of the moment.

County Executive Alvin Woehler, who has been attempting to get remodeling work through a committee, asked, "Is there any possibility I can respond to both committees?"

Rehfeldt answered, "I don't see how you can. We have jurisdiction." Referring to a property committee action authorizing the hiring of day labor to do some remodeling, Rehfeldt said, "that action is nullified. It has no bearing."

Karras, who had walked in on the judiciary committee meeting, said, "The last thing we want is to be embroiled in a debate. There is no question that there is a discrepancy between the tape and the minutes."

What we should do is dump the whole thing back in the county board."

Karras laid much of the blame for the situation on County Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt for not providing better direction last April and pushing through the change which resulted in the confusion. "I feel the change was politically motivated," Karras said.

He said there was a feeling that his committee was trying to block some programs, particularly courthouse remodeling, and had been pushing a program, the central telephone system, which other county leaders did not like. "That was not the case," Karras said. "What we were doing was taking actions based on thorough studies."

Supv. Edward Spierings, a member of the judiciary committee, said it was apparent that the judiciary committee never officially had jurisdiction. "We (the county board) adopted the minutes, not the tape."

Rehfeldt shouted, "The minutes are a mistake, we'll go by the tape."

Woehler said "I just want to know how to proceed. I don't know who to talk to. The county board put the funds in the property committee's budget. Do you (judiciary committee) have

Laird named to position at health center

Dr. James W. Laird, former Appleton health commissioner, is the new medical director at the Outagamie County Health Center.

He will replace Dr. Thomas Loescher, who will quit Jan. 15 after 12 years at the part-time position.

The hiring of Laird was revealed Wednesday by Health Center Supt. Eugene K. Speener during a board of trustees meeting. Laird will be paid $30 per hour, Speener explained.

There has been talk in recent years of making the medical director job full time, but no county board action has been taken.

Laird will work about the same number of hours as Loescher, Speener explained. Loescher's pay was $740 a month.

Laird, who lives at 1615 Reid Drive, has lived in Appleton most of his life. He graduated from Northwestern University Medical School and has been in private practice as a general practitioner and surgeon here since 1941.

He was Appleton health commissioner for about 10 years and now is medical consultant to the Appleton Health Department.

Health Center trustees said Loescher is quitting as medical director because his private practice and his involvement with the emergency services program at St. Elizabeth Hospital have limited the time he can spend at the center.

Speener said Loescher was instrumental in getting Laird for his replacement.

In other business, trustees voted to tie in the health center's automatic fire alarm system with the Town of Grand Chute Fire Department.

As is nearly always the case, Wednesday's meeting notice was not posted in the count office and therefore, according to an attorney general's opinion, was a closed meeting.

Nearly every other county committee and board regularly post notices of their meetings. Health Center trustees are John Wylie, Kelland Lathrop and Sylvester Esler.

8 more take out papers

Two more newcomers and six more incumbents have taken out nomination papers for Outagamie County supervisor posts.

Irvin Wiedenhaupt, 305 W. Fourth St., Kaukauna, has taken out papers for the Dist. 27 post held by Milo Gosdeck. Edward G. Shaw, 208 N. Main St., Black Creek, has taken out papers for the Dist. 38 post held by Lawrence Brockman.

Wiedenhaupt is a retired patrol superintendent for the Outagamie County Highway Department and Shaw is a retired Black Creek postmaster.

Incumbents taking out papers include John Kellogg, 33, 8 Brokaw Place, Appleton, Dist. 2; Richard Jahnke, 46, 1005 E. Lindbergh St., Appleton, Dist. 14; Paul Kostka, 68, 1022 E. Main St., Little Chute, Dist. 24; Emmett Root, route 1, Hortonville, Dist. 37; Francis Conen, 54, route 1, Seymour, Dist. 39; and Joseph DeBruin, 60, route 4, Kaukauna, Dist. 30.

Jahnke, who originally had announced he would not seek re-election, is chairman of the airport committee. He said he had changed his mind "because there are a few things I would like to see finished up," such as the terminal building, airport master plan and manager situation. He is a sales engineer for the Trane Co. and is seeking his third full term after having been appointed to the board.

Kellogg, an attorney, is seeking his second term. Root is seeking a full term following an appointment to the board. He also had served on the board prior to 1968. He is a farmer.

Conen, who is a cabinet maker and a tavern operator, is seeking his second term. Kostka, a retired papermill worker, is seeking his 10th term. DeBruin, a farmer, is seeking his seventh term.

Election race shapes up in city's 6th Ward

An election race is taking shape in Appleton's 6th Ward, where a county board supervisor and the incumbent have taken out nomination papers to run for alderman.

Charles E. Wussow, 52, 1532 W. Franklin St., a member of the Outagamie County Board since 1966, took out nomination papers Wednesday. If he files them before the Jan. 29 deadline, he could be in a runoff against incumbent Ald. Lois Mittlestadt, 32, 1528 W. Spring St., who also has taken out nomination papers to run for her second consecutive term.

The two 6th Ward hopefuls were among 10 prospective candidates who took out nomination papers to seek some of the 10 aldermanic and two school board posts up for election this spring.

Other newcomers who have taken out papers for aldermanic races are:

City gets second shared tax check

Appleton has received $1,404,121 in its second state shared tax payment for 1973. It's a partial payment released under a formula recently approved by the state legislature.

Finance Director Reynold Running said that if the state's current population estimate of 54,025 for the city holds up, another $112,886 should be coming to the city once the legal hassle with several municipalities challenging the state's population estimates is cleared up.

And there will also be interest money coming for the money that the state has held since Nov. 19, the date when the state shared tax payments were supposed to be made. They were delayed because of the challenge made by municipalities contesting the population estimates made by the state, used in figuring part of what each municipality receives.

The state has said it will refund all interest made on the withheld money. That, however, will not come until the dispute with some municipalities is cleared up.

Running had estimated that the city was losing about $375 per day in interest on the approximately $1.5 million that was being withheld.

The total payments due from the state in the November, 1973 distribution was $166,473,831. All but $11,322,014 of that has been released.

Appleton received just over $72,000 in utility payments, or the full amount due. It received another $280,574 in per capita payments ($35 per capita). That figure, when combined with the July per capita payment by the state, brings the total to $1,567,328.

Running estimates that the state's entire per capita payment will come to $1,658,754, or an additional $97,426.

The state has also received 98 per cent of its excess levy payment (figured on everything over 17 mills on the equalized tax rate). An additional $21,460 should come from the state for this category, once the dispute over population figures is settled.

The state legislature acted to release most of the state withheld shared tax money recently, after several municipalities had to borrow money to make up for the loss of the anticipated state checks.

Appleton was not one of the cities contesting its population estimate or finding itself in financial trouble because of the delay in sending out shared tax payments.

Wintry spectacular

Those piercing streaks of light on either side of the sun, which Post-Crescent photographer Robert V. Baeten captured on film and which area residents may have noticed these past bitter cold days, are sun dogs. The phenomenon occurs most frequently in the winter, according to the United States Weather Bureau in Green Bay, when the stratus (flat, layered sheets) cloud structure is more conducive to refraction of the sun's rays off the cloud crystals. Summer clouds (generally cumulus varieties) are more vertical and full in shape. The sun dog, parallel to the horizon at the altitude of the sun, often is tinged with rainbow colors. Although it has no meaning as to the cause of weather, the weather bureau spokesman said, it generally is a "pretty good" indicator of approaching precipitation. "If the clouds continue to thicken," the spokesman added, "and the weather system progresses normally, precipitation is on the way." Baeten's use of a water tower to block out the sun — sort of a mini-eclipse — helped cut down on the glare to make the sun dog more visible. To further enhance the effect, he used a red filter to provide more contrast.

Kaukauna sells land in new industrial park

BY ED VAN BERKEL
Post-Crescent staff writer

KAUKAUNA — What started out as a routine council meeting to open the new year was enlivened by a debate on the proposed sale of approximately 1.50 acres of land in the new industrial park to Russell L. Meerdink and Henry B. Adams for $7,500.

The two men contemplate construction of a 7,200-square-foot warehouse within six months for the F.W. Means Co., with further plans for a 3,000-square-foot addition within two years and the possibility of a third addition in the future.

Aldermen ultimately agreed on the sale with the stipulation that the temporary septic system or holding tank cost would not exceed $2,500. Ald. Robert Gertz (4th) cast the lone dissenting vote.

Stipulations in the sale agreement call for the city to install a 30-foot driveway culvert, to grade and to level the land, and to install a temporary sewer system until the regular city sewer becomes available by next Jan. 1, with no assessment for sewer and water installation and pro-rated taxes for 1974.

Meerdink and Adams indicated that time was very important as they planned to begin construction within a few months. Ald. Gertz felt the proposed sale agreement had too many cost unknowns and should be held for further study.

Ald. Lloyd Kloebe (2nd) and James McDaniel (3rd) argued that the two men had requested a different site earlier, but changed location at the request of the council and that some development should get under way within the park. They felt this construction could add impetus to future development.

Mayor Robert La Plante spoke in favor of getting some development within the park, but also favored a proposal presented by Ald. Robert Vondracek (1st) to form an industrial park commission to establish rules and regulations for development.

McDaniel argued that the city aldermen could study the sale request for six months or a year and still be uncertain if the sale price and restrictions were favorable to the city.

City Atty. Donald Green noted that making the park ready for use was expected to cost $3.5 million and that if the city hoped to recover $1.3 million or $1.4 million from the sale of land, it would necessitate a sale price of about $8,000 per acre. He said this price would be competitive with other industrial parks in northeastern Wisconsin.

In other action involving the industrial park, the council adopted an ordinance annexing the 180-acre site from the Town of Vandenberg, and rezoning the site from agricultural to heavy industrial and central business district and adopted a resolution requesting the Chicago and North Western Railway to install a spur line into the park.

An offer from Ready-Mix Concrete Co. to sell land in the former railway property east of Main Avenue and south of Second Street to the city for a price of $23,400 was referred to the finance committee. The city is interested in securing the land to make a larger tract available to an interested buyer.

Aldermen approved a Jan. 15 public hearing on the request of Vincent Hartzheim to have 11 lots rezoned from Class B to Class C residential pending approval of rezoning by the planning commission. The land is located off Eleventh Street near the Golden Venture Apartments. Developers plan additional apartment construction in the area.

Aldermen approved vacating a portion of Lehrer Lane between 19th and 20th streets to permit construction of an addition to a supermarket. Ald. Henry Drechsler (4th) complained that the supermarket owner had begun work on the addition even before the city acted on the street vacating.

Attorney Green and Mayor La Plante reported that the owner had been warned that he faced undue expense by beginning work before official action by the council, but that he was willing to "take a chance."

Drechsler said he felt this left city officials open for unnecessary criticism and reported that he had received two complaints.

The council referred the request of James Vanderloop for a Class B Liquor license for 105 W. Wisconsin Avenue to the health and recreation committee for further study. Vanderloop questioned whether he would be permitted to open for business while the study was being made. He was informed that committee action would be taken Monday and final council action on Jan. 15 and that he could not operate the tavern before that time.

An investigation is being made into the applicant's background as he has held similar licenses in other area communities.

The council also approved hiring of Richard Landreman Co. to audit the city and school district books for 1973 at a cost of $3,020, the same as last year.

Woman, 33, suffers heart attack and dies Wednesday afternoon

The death Wednesday afternoon of a 33-year-old rural Appleton woman was due to a heart attack, Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said today.

The woman, Mrs. Dennis Enge, route 6, was stricken at her home and rushed by her husband to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where she died shortly after arrival about 2:30 p.m.

Kemps said Mrs. Enge had a history of mild heart trouble. She was the mother of four.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the South Greenville Grange with burial in Abbottsford. Visitation will be from 4 to 9 p.m. Friday at the Westport Funeral Home, Neenah, and from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday at the Grange.

Denial of use permit reviewed

CHILTON — The Calumet County Planning and Zoning Committee will reconsider a petition of Page Realty on behalf of Mrs. Lester Bartlein, Town of Harrison, for a special use permit to establish a sand and gravel pit. The petition previously was denied.

The hearing is scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday, at the county courthouse, second floor.

Anyone wishing to be heard on the petition is asked to appear at the hearing.

The planning committee will meet earlier that evening to conduct its monthly business before the Dec. 15 county board session. Some of the items on the agenda include discussion of the snowmobile plan, and the Wisconsin Michigan Power Company installation of underground pipelines throughout the county.

Special permit for indoor tennis courts

NEENAH — Former mayor Donald Hassler unveiled a plan to build indoor tennis courts behind a house at 634 Main St., and everyone at the city council meeting Wednesday thought it was a great idea.

Everyone, that is, except City Atty. Duane Philis, who said a special use permit would be required, because tennis courts aren't listed specifically in city ordinances.

The plan commission had recommended that the vacant lot east of the slough be rezoned from residential to commercial. When Hassler first petitioned for the rezoning, he didn't say what the lot would be used for, and the planning commission based its decision on surrounding land use, which is mostly commercial.

Two years ago, the plan commission made the same decision on the same rezoning request, but the council voted it down, 8 to 2. It was only at the insistence of Jerme Bomier, Hassler's attorney, that the purpose of the land was disclosed Wednesday night, Bomier said.

Owners of adjacent property, led by real estate agent Claude Charron, objected to the commercial zoning because Charron said the designation was too broad. According to the city code, Charron said, 45 different uses would be permitted under commercial zones.

But Charron and the other owners did not object to the indoor tennis courts.

Philis maintained that the building couldn't be constructed under a C-2 classification, anyway. Hassler said if the project were delayed any longer, he would have to consider alternate sites outside Neenah. The process of getting a special use permit will take until Feb. 6.

Ald. Michael Ellis was incensed at what he called Philis' lack of consistency in interpreting the zoning code. "Sauna baths are allowed in barber shops; where we allow restaurants, we allow pizza huts, where you allow ice rinks, you allow a tennis court," he said. "Then, everytime you have a business use that didn't exist in 1930, then you have to send them to Appleton."

Ald. Robert Troyer said, "Change the zoning ordinance tonight," to accommodate the tennis courts, but Mayor Roman Hauser said such a change would also require a public hearing, and wouldn't be any quicker than the special use permit.

Ellis said, "This is the first time in five years I've heard this interpretation; the problem tonight is the city attorney's interpretation." But Ald. Jeffrey Smith said, "He's the law in the City of Neenah."

Ellis argued that facilities "similar in nature" to those listed specifically in the ordinance had been allowed in the past. "The city attorney has taken this right out of our hands," he said. "The large bulk of the businesses which have come into existence in the City of Neenah in the last five years aren't in our zoning code — it's extremely unfortunate that this process seems to have been circumvented."

But the council had no choice but to refer the question back to the planning commission, and request that Hassler turn in another petition, for the special permit.

Hassler gave no assurances that he would re-submit his request. Construction is supposed to start in April, he said, and the timing of the project is crucial. The 20,000 square foot building will house three tennis courts. When Smith asked Hassler what a five week delay would mean, Hassler said, "It would probably delay it for another year."

Hassler said the tennis courts were "The only project I have in mind for the site — a highly desirable, community-minded project. I have gone to great lengths to bring this to the City of Neenah. If you approve this zoning, this is the only development that's going in. If there is a delay, then we'll have to consider alternate sites."

Troyer said, "If we rezone and you can't build anyway, we're spinning our wheels." So the issue was left hanging. If Hassler requests the special permit, it would have to be approved by the planning commission and the council again, and there will be another public hearing.

Ald. Robert Storey said the problem could have been avoided if the planning commission knew what use was intended when Hassler requested the rezoning.

Nelson's bill requires food additives testing

WASHINGTON —Charging that there is a "serious gap" in food safety laws, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., has introduced legislation to require tests on all new food additives to determine whether they cause birth defects or genetic damage.

"The scientific community has been concerned for many years about the long-range effects of substances that cause birth defects (mutagenesis) or genetic damage (teratogenesis)," he said.

Nelson said scientific food studies have indicated that some food additives now used may cause these effects.

"Governmental action to prevent such substances from endangering the public health is long overdue," he said.

He said that presently some 3,000 food additives are approved for use in the United States. Of the number 1,000 food additives are approved for use directly in food and 2,000 for use that contacts food indirectly, such as packaging.

"According to the Federal Food and Drug Administration, the United States probably approves the use of more kinds of food additives than any other nation," he said. "None of these have ever been required to be tested for mutagenic or teratogenic effects. The FDA has begun such tests on certain additives, as part of its review of the 600 additives 'generally recognized as safe' (GRAS), which were given a blanket approval in the 1958 food additives law."

Nelson said the intent of his bill would be to insure that all 3,000 additives now under use be tested scientifically and that all new additives undergo tests.

He also has sponsored a bill requiring that additives be proven to be necessary prior to approval. Present law requires that additives be shown to be safe and non-cancer-causing.

The bill would require applicants for federal approval of food additives to include test reports made by the most up-to-date methods available, as determined by the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. The secretary would then have six months to act either to permit the chemical or to deny its use. Food bearing additives would be required to be labeled to that effect. Additives currently used would have to be tested within two years, under provisions of the bill.

Nelson cited several scientific studies of the effect of food additives.

—A team of San Francisco doctors found evidence that childhood behavioral disturbances, such as hyperkinesia and learning difficulties, may be linked to certain food additives;

—The Joint Food and Agriculture

Organization - World Health Organization Expert Committee on Food Additives found recently that some additives, such as carrageenan, were stored in cells of rhesus monkeys for six months or longer and recommended toxicological tests to determine consequences of long-term storage;

—A Georgetown University study in Washington, in collaboration with the National Institutes of Health, showed some chemical compounds used to preserve beverages and canned and frozen foods are harmful to human cells.

—Two preservatives, BHA and BHT, were found by a team at Loyola University's Institute of Mind, Drugs and Behavior to cause significant brain and behavioral changes in offspring of pregnant mice.

Ice glazes wide area of nation

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ice storms crippled areas from central Texas to Pennsylvania today with snow to the north and rain and drizzle spread to the south.

At least seven persons died in traffic accidents attributed to icy conditions in Tennessee. Ice up to an inch coated western sections of the state.

The Memphis Fire Department was swamped with calls for ambulance service Wednesday from people who suffered falls on the ice. Some power lines were down and schools were closed. Memphis International Airport was closed part of the day.

One Memphis woman wore her golf shoes to work to walk on ice but forgot to take them off before she glided over the marble floors of her office. She suffered a broken wrist and head injuries.

Trash collectors in St. Louis balked at working in icy alleys.

The ice-glazed parts of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Kentucky and into the Virginias and Pennsylvania.

A 15-minute trip in Little Rock, Ark., turned into a two-hour grind, and highways throughout the ice band area were tied up with stalled traffic.

South of the band of ice, rain and drizzle swept the Gulf and Atlantic coasts and northern Florida.

Freezing temperatures dipped as far south as central Texas as the cold wave that gripped the midcontinent held on for the fourth day in much of the region.

Snow fell from the southern Rockies in New Mexico to southern Kansas and in the upper Plains and along the lee shores of the Great Lakes. Heavy-snow warnings were issued for northern New Mexico, the Texas Panhandle and northwestern Oklahoma.

More than a foot of snow piled into some New Mexico communities Wednesday. Deep snow through northern counties prompted many schools and business places to close and snarled traffic in urban areas.

Travel advisories were posted for snow and sleet for much of the central Atlantic coast.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from -28 at Rawlins, Wyo., to 75 at Key West and West Palm Beach, Fla.

Some other reports: Anchorage 10 clear, Atlanta 40 drizzle, Boston 28 light snow, Buffalo 17 cloudy, Chicago 16 cloudy, Cincinnati 24 drizzle, Cleveland 24 cloudy, Dallas 29 cloudy, Detroit 16 cloudy, Honolulu 74 partly cloudy, Indianapolis 20 cloudy, Kansas City 9 clear, Los Angeles 45 clear, Louisville 28 freezing rain, Miami 74 partly cloudy, Minneapolis-St. Paul 4 clear, Nashville 34 heavy rain, New York 32 cloudy, Philadelphia 31 cloudy, Phoenix 37 clear, Pittsburgh 25 freezing drizzle, St. Louis 14 cloudy, San Francisco 41 cloudy, Seattle 30 clear, Washington 35 light rain.

Rockets hit Phnom Pehn

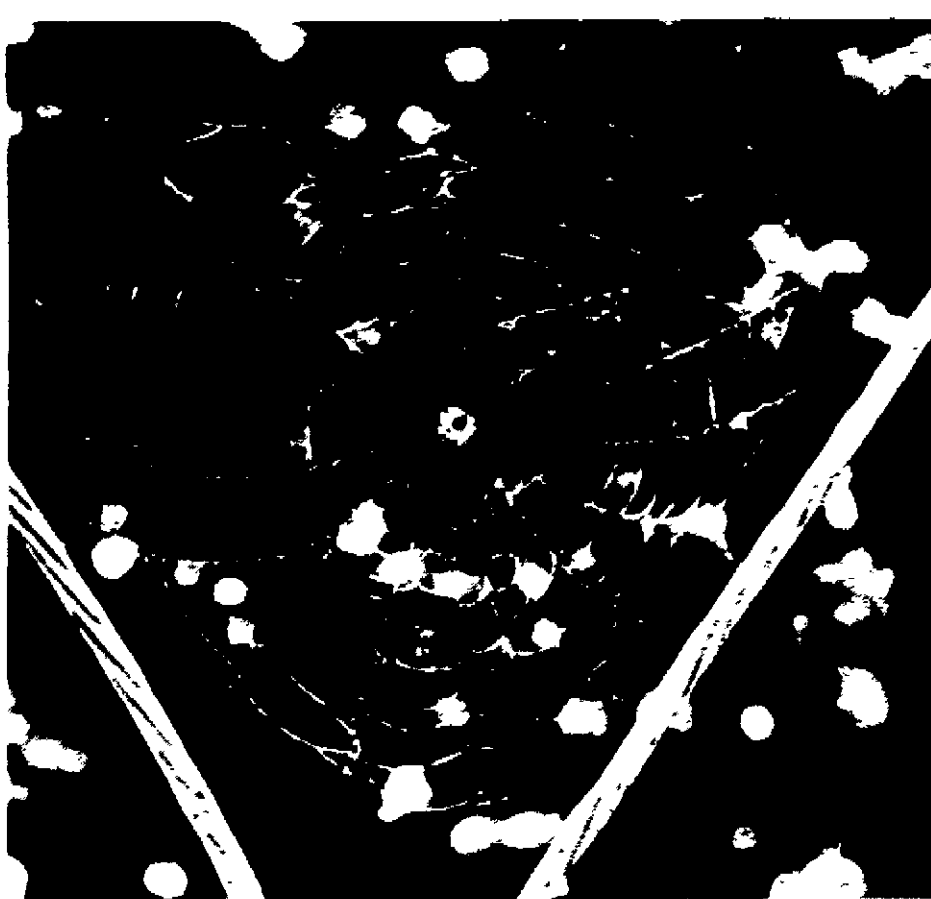

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Eight persons were killed and 37 wounded as Khmer Rouge rockets hit Phnom Penh late Wednesday night and again this afternoon, officials said.

Seven rockets landed in the Cambodian capital at 3 p.m. One hit near a crowded taxi stand a block from the central market. The others exploded in a residential area and near the Cambodian Army Headquarters.

The military command said six 122mm rockets were fired into the city Wednesday night but only one caused casualties. It exploded under a house in a slum section, killing one person and wounding seven.

Phnom Penh now has been the target of six rocket attacks since Dec. 23. The missiles are fired from the other side of the Mekong River northeast of the city, and Cambodian planes and artillery have been attacking the area.

Field reports Wednesday said government ground forces had cleared a three-mile strip of villages on the east bank of the Mekong northeast of Phnom Penh. But this did not stop the rocket attacks.

Moslem feast begins as pilgrimage climaxes

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The cry of "Liberate Jerusalem" resounded through the Arab world today as it began a four-day holiday for Id al Adha, the biggest Moslem feast of the year.

Egyptians relaxed in the wake of the October war with Israel, but their troops on the increasingly tense Suez front remained on full alert. Members of parliament were visiting them with gifts.

Id al Adha means Feast of Sacrifice and commemorates the Islamic version of the Biblical story of Abraham and Isaac: Allah ordered the Prophet Ibrahim to sacrifice his son Ismail as a test of obedience; Ibrahim took the boy to Mt. Arafat, near Mecca, but as he was about to kill him, Allah substituted a lamb.

The feast comes at the end of the Hajj, the annual pilgrimage to Mecca, in Saudi Arabia, which a million Saudis and 750,000 Moslems from 62 other countries are making this year. King Faisal led them to the granite hill today for the slaughter of hundreds of thousands of lambs and prayers for the recovery of the Arab sector of Jerusalem and its Moslem shrines, lost to Israel in the 1967 war.

Arab radio stations from Morocco to the Persian Gulf were linked up with the 25-mile trek from Mecca and the ritual at Arafat. Cairo Radio told the 36,000 Egyptians making the Hajj to pray "for the completion of victory over the Jews — Allah's enemies."

In Cairo, last-minute shoppers scurried about in brisk, 50-degree weather. Many shops closed until Tuesday because Egypt's six million Coptic Christians celebrate Christmas on Monday. President Anwar Sadat went to Aswan, in southern Egypt, where it is about 25 degrees warmer, to recuperate from bronchitis.

Families throughout the country gathered to feast on the traditional lamb. The government imported 400 tons of meat to supplement the two-days-a-week ration.

Watergate burglar Hunt released from prison

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — E. Howard Hunt, his thin face showing the effects of 10 months in prison for the Watergate break-in, is home with his children once again. "I'm free for the time being," he said.

Hunt was released Wednesday, but how long he remains free will be decided by the U.S. Court of Appeals, which has been asked to rule whether Hunt should have been allowed to withdraw his guilty plea in district court.

The higher court ordered Hunt and fellow conspirator Bernard L. Barker freed last Friday pending the outcome of their appeals. Barker's release from prison in Florida was expected today or Friday.

"I find it very encouraging that the court has seen sufficient merit in my appeal to order my release," Hunt told newsmen after going through the formalities of pledging he will abide by conditions set by the court.

He also thanked "the many thousands of concerned Americans who have sent me telegrams and letters over these long months." He said "this has made my incarceration far more bearable."

Hunt was reunited with his four children who live in nearby Potomac, Md.

His release and the expected release of Barker would leave four of the original Watergate defendants still in prison — three of whom could be released soon either by parole board action or appeals court order.

Eugenio R. Martinez, Virgilio R.

Gonzalez and Frank A. Sturris, who pleaded guilty with Hunt and Barker last January, already have served more than their minimum one-year sentence. Their parole board hearing at the federal prison at Eglin AFB in Florida is scheduled Monday.

James W. McCord Jr., and G. Gordon Liddy also have appealed their jury convictions. McCord was freed on bond shortly after his arrest in the Democratic Party headquarters June 17, 1972.

Liddy currently is serving a contempt term for refusing to testify before the grand jury under immunity. He still has most of his minimum 6 years, 8 months conspiracy-burglary-wire-tap sentence to serve.

Hunt has served 10 months, 5 days of his 2½-8 year sentence. Barker has a minimum 6 months to go on his 18 months term. McCord's sentence is 1-5 years.

McCord, Barker, Sturgis, Gonzalez and Martinez were arrested by plainclothes police inside the Watergate office building. Liddy and Hunt surrendered later.

took the older man into the other bedroom and they shot."

Young Isaacs said Jimmy Alday was shot by Carl Isaacs after the victim pulled up to the home on a tractor.

He said Mary Alday was held at gunpoint when she arrived and then Aubrey and Chester Alday were taken captive when they drove up in a pickup truck.

"Carl grabbed my pistol, a .38. His wasn't loaded and went click," Billy told the jury. "He went into the bedroom and shot and came out laughing. He said, 'That damn bastard begged for mercy,' He said Coleman shot the other man."

He said his brother and Coleman raped Mrs. Alday in the kitchen, then he and the others drove with Mrs. Alday to a patch of woods about five miles from the Alday home. He said Dungee shot the woman there after she had been sexually assaulted a second time by Carl.

State troopers from Welch, W. Va., apprehended the four five days after the slayings.

FIG 2 CAT ON TIGHTROPE
FIG 3 FISH ON SURFBOARD
FIG 4 BIRD AT THE TYPEWRITER

Examples

joining illustration are easy for a handy boy or girl to make. When the hangers are handed to guests to hang their wraps on they will find them amusing. This will give you a chance to tell how you decorated the hangers yourself.

Start by covering each hanger with plain paper carefully cut and fitted to overlap at the sloping top sides of the hanger. Meantime, search through your coloring books, magazines, travel folders and other such places for pictures of animals and birds doing unusual and funny things. If you are good at drawing, you may prefer to draw such pictures and, after coloring them with your paints, paste them on the hangers.

Figures 1, 2, 3 and 4 show examples of pictures that could be used effectively.

If you prefer, you could use pictures of flowers (clipped from old seed catalogs).

DeKoven store closes; Campbell's to relocate

DeKoven Drug Center, 100 W. College Ave., has closed after about 2 1/2 years in business in Appleton, and Campbell Stores, Inc., in business at 214 W. College since 1922, will relocate in the DeKoven building.

DeKoven, a discount drug store chain based in Elk Grove Village, Ill., will relocate its store in Chicago about six blocks from the Loop. James Schroeder, Appleton store manager, will manage the new store.

DeKoven opened its Appleton store, its third in Wisconsin, in August, 1971. At its peak, it employed 23, but after closing the downstairs boutique about a year ago, employment declined.

Schroeder blamed a poor return on investment for the closing of the store. He said the chain was getting a better return on investment in other communities, and noted the lack of convenience, primarily parking, had been a problem for the Appleton store.

DeKoven has 40 outlets, owned or leased, including ones at La Crosse and Janesville. It has seven in Chicago.

Campbell Stores, a chain of 10 stores handling women's and children's clothing, plans to open at the new location March 1. There is no word on the plans for the old Campbell location, which is owned by the Aid Association for Lutherans.

The new Campbell store will be remodeled internally to allow a broadening of the existing lines of merchandise.

The Campbell chain includes 10 stores in eastern Wisconsin owned by Mr. and authority to spend from their budget?"

Supv. R. Clayton Van Dyke, another member of the judiciary committee, said "the whole hangup is over hiring the consultant, Jerome Schommer."

Schommer has frequently been hired by the county to supervise county maintenance employees on remodeling projects. "Remodeling has always been done without bids," Van Dyke complained. "It's run into a lot of money. This has got to stop."

Rehfeldt, surveying the situation, said, "We didn't ask for this (jurisdiction over the courthouse). We've got plenty of work without it."

Sperlings answered, "You didn't say that last April."

Supv. Emmett Root said, "I agree with Karras. There are only three months left. Let's iron out the rules so we can start clean in April."

mayor today, however, that he was "waiting with baited breath" for an interview with the chief city executive, so that he might argue on behalf of his four deputy assessors who, he feels, are not getting the pay they deserve.

Schwarzbauer wrote the finance committee late last year, when one of his assistant assessors resigned, that the current salary for the post was not high enough. He said it should be raised to at least what other cities are paying.

Schwarzbauer claimed that his "feelings are shared by a majority of department heads," and told Sutherland that he hoped he would not first hear of his salary for 1974 through the news media.

"I think there'll be other letters to the mayor," said the assessor in an interview today.

Department heads held three meetings, starting about two months ago, to try and work out a salary proposal to present to the city. About 14 attended. Schwarzbauer said different demands from higher and lower paid department personnel, and other differences, prevented the group from formulating a policy.

But the assessor said all those attending the meetings were dissatisfied with the way negotiations with non-union city employees were being handled.

Prior to Sutherland's taking office, Schwarzbauer said, "I didn't always like the way it was handled, but we were at least all called in separately

No exclusion of public, press at meetings: judge

WEST BEND, Wis. (AP) —The public cannot be excluded from meetings where general information is being discussed simply because some of the discussion will involve privileged matters, a circuit court judge ruled Wednesday.

Judge Milton Meister said the public and press were improperly excluded from portions of Dec. 11 and 19 meetings of a city of West Bend study committee on the feasibility of establishing a city administrator system.

He ordered that the committee be restrained from making any recommendation to the Common Council on an administrator "until after the committee arranges for and conducts a public hearing at which members of the public may attend."

Representatives of the West Bend News were excluded from the two meetings and asked for the restraining order. The News is a subsidiary of Post Corporation, Appleton.

Meister earlier had issued a temporary restraining order against further closed meetings on the matter.

He released as part of the court record all the minutes from the two other meetings, their agenda and their formal recommendation, which had not yet been made public. The committee had recommended creation of the city administrator post.

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Medical Research Council wants volunteers to catch cold.

It will pay them about 85 cents a day to stay at the Common Cold Unit at the Harvard Hospital, Salisbury, Wiltshire, for 10 days. There they live in comfortable apartments, play games and go for country hikes.

Men and women between 18 and 50 are eligible. All they have to do is take nose drops, some of which contain mild cold and flu viruses, so the effects of possible cold cures can be tested.

"The Two-Store Store That Offers (EVEN) MORE in '74"

Sylvia Porter

And now come the gasoline gimmicks

"50 per cent more fuel per gallon of gas!" "Drive your car 500 miles on a single tank of gas!" "Run your car half on gas, half on air!" This is a sampling of the "new," "scientific" products which will be advertised to you in even more glowing phrases in 1974 to help you squeeze the utmost mileage from a tankful of gasoline. All you need do is pour them into your gas tank or oil supply or simply clip them onto your motor—and presto!

Unless you accept the advance warning in today's column, you easily could be trapped into spending money for totally ineffectual "solutions" or even dangerous, illegal products.

They're fast buck operators
The same kind of fast buck operators who brought you quack cancer cures and pyramid clubs will be operating at peak capacity in the automobile area," says Graham W. Whitehead, president of British Leyland Motors Inc., marketers of Austin, MG, Jaguar, Triumph and Land-Rover cars in the U.S. "The gasoline shortage will result in a flood of 'secret formula' additives and 'space age' devices which promise more miles to the gallon."

"But low-cost, do-it-yourself gadgets which fit all cars regardless of make, model and year, such as water injectors, superchargers, 'hot' ignition components and 'miracle' carburetor conversion kits have been on the market for years, mainly through mail order."

Of course, there are effective ways in which you can increase your mileage per gallon of gas.

Presumably, by now you have learned them well. For instance, drive more slowly, keep your tires properly inflated, be sure your car is in tune, drive a smaller car, etc.

But from an automotive engineering point of view, Whitehead declares, "virtually all of the gadgets claiming better mileage are worthless, like most anything that offers the gullible something for practically nothing. Some of the devices are actually counterproductive."

Make extravagant claims
As one far-out illustration, the promoters claimed a "mileage booster," costing $3.98, would convert plain air into "high-powered fuel." The ingenious promotion pointed out that 70 per cent of the gas you put in your car is "wasted" and to prove it, the ad suggested a simple test: place a wad of cotton on your exhaust pipe and notice how quickly it becomes soaking wet.

But the fact is the moisture coming out of the exhaust pipe is not gas. It's water condensation. A large part of your gas is inevitably "wasted" in the sense that it is dissipated in the form of heat instead of power—just as most of the heat in your fireplace inevitably goes up the chimney. The fact also is that, in some cases, independent laboratory tests show the "miracle" additives and gimmicks actually decrease the efficiency of gas in your tank. And oil changes at the proper intervals are more beneficial than any additives being sold today.

Aren't there, then, any "after-market" items which can really help us get more miles per gallon? Yes, says Whitehead.

One is a comprehensive shop manual. This will make it possible for you, if you're at all handy, to keep your car in proper tune. Another is a "vacuum gauge" which will tell you when you are applying more gas pedal pressure than you need to, consistent with the most economical operation of your car.

Extra tanks dangerous
Under no circumstances, cautions Whitehead, try to extend your weekend cruising range by having accessory fuel tanks installed in the trunks of your cars. A car's trunk is among its most vulnerable areas, and in a rear-end collision a trunk-mounted gas tank might rupture and cause a fire. In addition, Federal Environmental Protection Agency rules make it illegal for an automobile dealer to install an accessory gasoline tank that does not meet the present evaporation control standards. The fine could be up to $10,000.

Also, if an auto dealer is found tampering with any of the emission control devices on new cars, the same fine could be the punishment. And if you, the motorist, either remove the devices yourself or have them removed by an independent mechanic you're possibly liable too.

On top of the possible fine, "the motorist faces a stiff complete engine rebuild bill for sure, if he is to gain anything," Whitehead emphasizes. The reason is that present emission systems are total systems and the removal of one or two components might actually result in a decrease in mileage or not improve it at all.

Big Dylan tour starts at Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — At midnight on Sunday, Dec. 2, there was a traffic jam five blocks long at the central post office in San Francisco. In less than 10 minutes, the scene was the same, though the snarl extended only three blocks.

The tieups were due to an advertisement in local newspapers that simply said "Dylan-The Band" and specified a date and location and a post office box to which orders could be mailed.

A couple of lines of newsprint and what — instant frenzy.

The focus of it all was the former Robert Zimmerman of Hibbing, Minn., who transformed himself 13 years ago into Bob Dylan — folk singer, poet, rocker and prophet of the '60's.

Friday at Chicago Stadium, a lucky 18,000 persons who got their ticket orders filled will see Dylan begin a six-week, 21-city concert tour with The Band, a group Dylan lifted from obscurity into one of the premier American rock groups.

It's a tour that's being billed by its sponsors — super-promoter Bill Graham and Elektra-Asylum Records — as the re-emergence of a legend after eight years of privacy. And it's to that re-emergence that the ticket requests have been aimed. Graham says as many as 20 million tickets may have been ordered for the 650,000 seats.

As with everything else in the world of big-time entertainment, economics is a major factor. Dylan — private as ever and granting no interviews — has just switched from Columbia Records to his own label, which will be distributed by Elektra-Asylum. The Band is about to switch from Capitol to Elektra-Asylum. And a joint Dylan-Band album, "Ceremonies of the Horseman," is being released to coincide with the tour.

From all indications, many of those paying $9.50 to see Dylan are persons in their late 20s and early 30s who grew up with his music. Dylan will be 33 on May 24.

But there are also reports that teenagers, many of them too young to have felt the impact of Dylan in the early '60s, also flocked to the post offices. Graham says that a number of the ticket buyers are in the post-40 set.

The demand is also the result of a desire to be in on history. It's likely that the concerts will be the beginning of Dylan's third or fourth musical incarnation — which one it is depends on which Dylanologists you talk to. And curiosity about what will take place is as present as the desire to hear good music.

Coming to Appleton

Herman's Hermits, one of the most popular English groups during the mid-1960s, will appear in a one-night concert at Appleton's Country Aire Sunday. Peter Noone, front right, is the leader of the group, which had nine million sellers. Now, Noone is capitalizing on the popularity of nostalgia rock.

Look at education costs

9-10 — Channel 5 — Anybody with college-age children will be morbidly fascinated by "NBC News Presents: The College Money Crunch." This documentary is an in-depth examination of how costs for all facets of higher education — tuition, room and board, even books — are soaring. It attempts to explain the reasons for the crunch. Correspondent Edwin Newman interviews Rev. Edmund Ryan of Georgetown University, who proposes that the solution to the vanishing student population may lie in foreign student exchanges.

One is a wanted gunman (Andrew Prince), the other a lovely, proud widow (Katharine Woodville).

8-9 — Channel 5 — "Ironside" is the latest to do the search-for-the-crooked cop story, this season's most popular theme. Some heroin is missing and it looks like one of two officers stole it. Ironside (Raymond Burr) goes to work, trying to prove both are innocent.

9-10 — Channels 9-11 — "The Streets of San Francisco" has the frame story, something every cop does at least once. Mike (Karl Malden) is well-framed to make it look like he's been on the take and has killed an undercover cop.

State gains in federal aid share

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Federal aid per person rose more in Wisconsin than in surrounding states during the fiscal year which ended last July, Gov. Patrick J. Lucey said Wednesday.

Lucey said preliminary federal figures show federal aid per citizen rose 47 per cent in Wisconsin.

That compares to 35 per cent in Iowa, 30 per cent in Michigan, and 22 per cent in Illinois and Minnesota, Lucey said.

The increase moved Wisconsin from 48th to 44th nationally in the ranking of states according to the amount of federal aid they receive.

Showing the highest increase among the states last year was Vermont, where per capita aid went from $234 to $250, a jump of 122 per cent.

Barbara Coleman, director of Wisconsin's Office of State-Federal Relations in Washington, said much of Wisconsin's increase was due to its portion of revenue sharing funds.

7-8 — Channels 2-7 — "The Waltons" continues its look at the growth and changes in the family. It's Grandma's (Ellen Corby) birthday and age seems to be catching up — she's feeling poorly and her hearing is going. But Mary Ellen (Judy Norton) is growing up, spurred by a passing collegian.

7-8 — Channel 5 — On "The Flip Wilson Show," the Pointer Sisters recall the Andrews Sisters, with their "Wang Wang Doodle" tune. They also help Rev. Leroy preach on the evils of drink. Ted Knight teaches Flip the art of newscasting.

8-9 — Channels 9-11 — For the first time in his career, Caine (David Carradine) cries, at the end of tonight's "Kung Fu." This is a love story about people who cannot say, "I love you."

Terrors invade Neenah; Papermakers test Indians

BY ROGER PITT
Post-Crescent staff writer

The rugged Fox Valley Association will have the most important, if not the feature, games Friday as most area high schools resume cage action after the holiday hiatus.

Appleton West (3-2) which knocked Kimberly (4-1) from the unbeaten ranks prior to the Christmas break will attempt to make it two startling upsets in a row Friday when it ventures onto unbeaten Neenah's floor.

The Papermakers are home to Oshkosh West, also 4-1, in a crucial contest which would drop the loser virtually out of contention in the FVA at this early date.

Appleton East coach Tom Gossens, whose team has been struggling with a 1-4 record, had another crushing blow during the holidays as his standout 6-7 junior center Paul Callaway broke an ankle during practice Tuesday.

Gossens, whose Patriots are home to Menasha (0-5), said it was doubtful Callaway would play anymore this season, adding the earliest possible return would be for the tournaments in early-March.

Lourdes (4-2) in the other Friday game. On Saturday, conference-leading De Pere Penning (5-1) travels to Manitowoc Roncalli (4-2) and Green Bay Premontr (2-4) invades the Fox Valley Lutheran Foxes (1-5) den.

The high-scoring and tall front line for Winneconne (2-2) will present a problem to the shorter Waupaca (4-0) team as the Comets seek to solidify their hold on first place in the East Central Conference in a road contest.

In other ECC games, Hortonville (2-2) is involved in a must game on arch rival New London's (1-3) floor and Berlin (2-2) must win at Omro (1-4). Ripon (3-2) draws the bye.

The rich should add to their fortunes in the Olympian and Bay conferences as the leaders play the cellar-dwellers.

Clintonville (6-1), co-leader in the Bay Conference, is home to winless Seymour. The Truckers are the highest-scoring team in the Bay with a 74.5 average, while the Seymour is the poorest defensive team surrendering 81 points per outing.

Freedom, leading the Olympian with an unblemished 6-0 record, plays host to winless Wrightstown. The potent Irish attack, scoring at a 69.3 clip, is pitted against the Olympians most-pourous defense. In other Olympian encounters Friday, which end the first half, Denmark (3-3) matches its record against host Valders; Reedsville (3-3) pls at Brillion (4-2) and Hilbert (1-5) — ventures to Mishicot (4-2).

High-flying Wittenberg-Biramwood (7-0) begins second half play in the Central Wisconsin Conference at Manawa (2-5). One of the Wolves victories was a stunning triumph over Little Chute (5-2). The Chuters play host to Bonduel, also 5-2, in a vital contest. Other pairings have Shiocton ((0-7) at Weyauwega (2-5) and Wautoma (4-3) at Marion (3-4).

Marquette rolls to 10th victory

CINCINNATI (AP) — Try as Marquette University basketball Coach Al McGuire might, he just couldn't convince his Warriors they had to worry about Xavier.

It turned out his Warriors were right, and Xavier fell before sixth-ranked and undefeated Marquette Wednesday night, 73-53.

"I'd say they were in pretty good shape from the start of the game," Xavier Coach Tay Baker acknowledged after the ragged contest. "They knew it and we knew it."

McGuire had taken the Warriors to Cincinnati a day early, just in case they felt smug about Xavier but worried about Saturday's opponent, South Carolina.

But Marquette (10-0) opened up an 11-2 lead.

Xavier stayed within hailing distance for most of the first half, then Jerry Homan, a 6foot-7 backup center whom McGuire calls "our best shooter," hit the Warriors' last 10 points of the half and Marquette had a 37-24 intermission margin.

Maurice Lucas, who scored only four points before halftime, added 12 in the second half to take MU scoring honors. He helped the Warriors to a 5731 lead midway through the second period.

"I was pleased with our play until we broke it open and things got wild," McGuire said. "I don't know, maybe our conditioning isn't good yet."

"They boxed us off the boards pretty well in the first half, but we were fortunate to get that little run at the end with Homan."

Homan hit six of the nine shots he tried and finished with 14 points, but the Musketeers' Mike Plunkett led all scorers with 20.

The Warriors had defeated Xavier 68-55 at Milwaukee two weeks ago, and Baker was surprised his team did not do better the second time around.

"They played better than they did when we met them a couple weeks ago, and we played worse," he said. "I'm disappointed in that. You'd think the home town reaction would help a little."

The Musketeers made only 33 per cent of their field goal attempts, Marquette 54 per cent. With just 17 baskets to MU's 34, Xavier's 19.5 margin in free throws made little difference.

Marquette, led by freshman Bo Ellis' 10 rebounds, had a 4029 edge off the backboards.

McGuire admitted the game was less than an artistic success.

"It does seem to get sloppy with these guys," he said. "But we were pulling a lot of people in and out of there."

Players' names are followed by field goals, free throws made-attempted and total points.

Blanda blasts NFL's stereotyped offense after college games

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — College football's game of the year excited George Blanda, the oldest of the National Football League's old pros.

But he's worried about the pro game he's observed since 1949 as a player.

Foreman and Chambers top rookies

NEW YORK (AP) — Each January, National Football League teams sit down to divide the best of college football's graduating senior class. The cream this season went to the Minnesota Vikings, who came up with power runner Chuck Foreman, and the Chicago Bears, who found a fierce defensive end in Wally Chambers.

Foreman was chosen the NFL's Offensive Rookie of the Year and Chambers took freshman defensive honors today in a poll conducted by The Associated Press.

The Vikings, picking No. 12 in the draft, selected Foreman of Miami quite simply because he had the credentials to be a good one. Oh, maybe not quite as good as some others. There were scouts who liked runners like Purdue's Otis Armstrong and Sam Cunningham of Southern California better. Both were chosen ahead of Foreman, Armstrong by Denver and Cunningham by New England.

The same thing happened to Bear scouts who saw two other defensive linemen go — Tampa's John Matuzak to Houston and Dave Butz of Purdue to St. Louis — before they drafted Chambers.

Foreman had rushed for a career record of 1,631 yards at Miami, including a school record 951 in 1971. He also caught 56 passes for 732 yards in three seasons. Standout performances in the North-South Game and the Senior Bowl convinced the Vikings they were right about the young man.

Foreman's 801 yards gained in 182 carries was ninth best among all National Conference rushers. He also caught 37 passes for 362 more yards, injecting new life into Minnesota's offense as the Vikings soared into a Super Bowl date against Miami.

Chambers led the Bears in tackles with 101 and assisted on 31 others. It marked the first time since 1965 when Dick Butkus joined the team that anyone but Butkus had led the team in tackles. The 6-foot-6, 250-pounder also had nine quarterback sacks to his credit.

Foreman had more competition in the offensive balloting than Chambers did on defense in The AP poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

Foreman received 24 of a possible 78 votes. Second place belonged to Philadelphia tight end Charley Young, who attracted 16 votes. Wide receiver Isaac Curtis of Cincinnati was third with 15 votes.

Chambers had 36 votes in the defensive balloting, far outdistancing a pair of defensive backs, Dick Jauron of Detroit and Eddie MacMillan of Los Angeles, who each had eight.

Jabbar limited to 14 as Pistons trim Bucks

DETROIT (AP) — There was a big difference between the big men for the Detroit Pistons and Milwaukee Wednesday, and that split spelled doom for the Bucks.

Piston Bob Lanier dumped in 34 points and held Kareem Abdul-Jabbar to 14 points as Detroit took its second consecutive National Basketball Association victory from Milwaukee.

Aside from Kareem's showing, the Bucks were hampered by the loss of both Oscar Robertson and Bob Dandridge, sidelined with injuries.

Lucius Allen tried to make up the difference, scoring a career-high 39 points, but the Bucks fell short in the final quarter after leading by as many as 12 points.

Detroit Coach Ray Scott said scoreless Ben Kelso, a rookie from Central Michigan University, was another key to the Pistons' triumph. Scott said Kelso "did everything we wanted him to" when he came in during the third period.

"He took Allen out of his pattern and from then on he wasn't the threat he had been," said Scott.

Lanier, who said his jump shot "came back from vacation," scored 25 of his points in the final half when the Pistons made up the deficit.

"I have reflections of when they'd beat us by 20 or 30 points a game," Lanier said of past confrontations.

"Anytime we beat them I enjoy it. Now our talent caliber is as good as theirs. When I first came it wasn't."

A pair of free throws by Dave Bing tied the game at 82all with about 10 minutes left. Lanier scored eight of the next 10 points with Dave Bing and John Mengelt adding baskets to push the score to 100-86.

Despite the victory, the Pistons still trail the division-leading Bucks by six games.

Phoenix win in breeze

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Host Wisconsin-Green Bay sank 73 per cent of its field goal attempts Wednesday night to trounce Wayne State 81-55 and join Slippery Rock in tonight's finals of the Green Bay Classic college basketball tournament.

Slippery Rock edged UWStout 81-79, and Stout and Wayne State will play for consolation honors.

In Georgia, UW-Milwaukee concluded its frustrating road trip with a 76-75 defeat at the hands of Georgia Southern, giving Wisconsin colleges a 1-2 record for the evening.

Green Bay (6-3) raced to a 12-0 lead and held a 49-14 halftime margin. The winners finished with 31 baskets in 42 attempts. Wayne State (3-7) hit only 25 per cent in the first half and finished with 41 per cent.

James Bardney led Green Bay with 24 points.

Slippery Rock (4-5) scored 14 consecutive points late in the first half to turn a 35-25 deficit into a 39-35 it never gave up.

Denny Kopka of Slippery Rock and Bill Lyons of Stout (6-5) each scored 19 points.

UWM, 5-6 overall and 1-3 on its road trip, held the biggest lead of the game, 47-41, early in the second half over Georgia Southern. The game was tied eight times after that before the Panthers lost.

Their three road trip defeats were by a total of nine points.

"I hurt too much to laugh and I'm too old to cry," UWM Coach Bill Klucas said. "We played our best basketball of the season on this road trip and only win one game."

Perry Warblington led Southern with 29 points, including 21 in the second half. Kessem Grimes and Marvin Powell each scored 15 for UWM, which had two shots at last-second, winning baskets. Both failed to connect.

Ara relieved as Irish lead Buckeyes in final grid poll

BY HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame are the national champions of college football.

By defeating regular-season leader Alabama 24-23 in the Sugar Bowl Monday night, Notre Dame vaulted from third place to first in the final Associated Press rankings announced today and thereby captured its first national championship since 1966.

The Irish won comfortably over Ohio State, which jumped from fourth to second by trouncing Southern California 42-21 in the Rose Bowl, and Oklahoma, which was ineligible for a bowl trip and slipped from second to third. Oklahoma finished second the last two seasons.

Notre Dame received 33 first-place votes and 1,128 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Ohio State earned 11 first-place ballots and 1,002 points while Oklahoma got the other 16 first-place votes and 965 points.

"Whew, am I glad to hear that news," Notre Dame Coach Ara Parseghian told The AP when the final rankings were relayed to him Wednesday night. "I was sweating like hell. I was worried because of the press that came out of the West Coast after the Rose Bowl. Woody (Ohio State Coach Woody Hayes) was making all kinds of statements."

Alabama finished fourth with 834 points. Penn State, one of only three unbeaten and untied teams in the country, was fifth after a 16-9 Orange Bowl triumph over Louisiana State. The by a vote of the 10 athletic directors. Rounding out the final Top Ten are No. 7 Nebraska, a 19-3 victor over Texas in the Cotton Bowl, and No. 8 Southern Cal, the 1972 champion; while Houston, which wallopped Tulane 47-7 in the Astro-Bluonnet Bowl, finished in a tie for ninth place with Arizona State, a 28-7 winner over Pittsburgh in the Fiesta Bowl.

The Second Ten consists of Texas Tech, UCLA, Louisiana State, Texas, Miami of Ohio, North Carolina State, Missouri, Kansas and Tennessee, with Maryland and Tulane tied for 20th.

Since 1966, Notre Dame's only serious run at a national title came in 1970 when the Irish ended Texas' 30-game winning streak in the Cotton Bowl and finished second to Nebraska in the ratings.

This marks Notre Dame's sixth national championship since the AP rankings began in 1936, more than any other school. The other titles came in 1943, 1946, 1947, 1949 and 1966.

Honor series hit by five women

Five women, four bowling in the Woman's Classic League at 41 Bowl, crashed national honors series Wednesday night in women's kegling action.

Val Wendt set the pace with a 623 in the Woman's Classic. She rolled games of 242-177 and 204. Also hitting honors in the Classic were Hattie Reim with 207-167-247-621, Karen Dix 221-226-168-615 and Sue Judge with 175-194-236-606.

Amelia Girard logged a 609 in the Soap Opera at Sabre Lanes on lines of 212-217 and 180.

Other leaders in the Woman's Classic were Carol Olson with 222-591, Ruth Schmidt 223-581, Bev Behrent 571, Julie Hidde 204-208-562, Myrna Schoenhaar 219-559, Joan Kolosso 210-558, Sue Schroeder 202-554, Marlene Smudde 554, Delores Jacobs 213-546, Judy Becker 543, Carol Eckes 540, Peg Nau 226-535, Rosie Eckes 535, Loretta Martola 213-533, Bea Albrecht 210-530, Mickey Kuba 528, Ruth Potratz 216-528, Elaine Bartel 528, Shirley Schultz 212-527, Donna Larson 217-527, Muggs Selig 525, Barb Burton 201, Kathy Sodermark 201, Lou Peterson 204 and Mary Redman 211.

Jeanice Armstrong cracked a 540 in the Soap Opera. Janet Heiman hit 531, Betty Barker 206-526, Mary Ann Jokela 201 and Martha Wilz 205.

Leaders in the Donut loop at Super Bowl were Grace Martin with 549, Gloria Howe 222-532, Sheila Anderson 202-531 and Rose Fredericks 526.

Nancy Schwernin hit 546, Sue Bond 544 and Ruth Ribble 528 in the Wednesday Coffee at 41 Bowl.

Delores Quella had a 225-545 in the Nut Cracker League at Sabre Lanes.

Pacing the Greenville Women were Donna Morack with 204-543, Esther Kettner 211-534 and Helen Kettner 207-525.

Lynne Salzmann smashed a 208-536 in the Moonshiners at Sabre Lanes.

Area skiing outlook

BY CHUCK TORINUS

So far this week the temperatures have dropped, but snow hasn't and consequently Fox Cities skiers, at this point, will have to contend with average conditions at nearly all of the popular areas.

Bases generally are established however and this should make a ski trip worthwhile.

Reports from Michigan's Upper Peninsula range from good to very good. None of the areas have any new snow accumulated and the following bases were reported: Porcupine Mtn. (10 inches), Powderhorn Mtn. (10), Brule Mtn. (10-20), Cliff's Ridge (10-14), Indianhead Mtn. (5-15) and Pine Mtn. (12-20).

In Wisconsin, "very good" skiing is reported by Rib Mtn. in Wausau and Hidden Valley near Manitowish. The former has an 8-18 inch base with some surface snow still around and the latter

Tomjanovich sparks Rockets past 76ers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Houston Coach Johnny Egan glanced at the scoreboard, flipped through his mental storehouse of basketball strategy and produced a play geared to Rudy Tomjanovich's shooting ability.

It couldn't have worked better. Tomjanovich scored four of his game-high 32 points in the final 1:36 and powered the Rockets to a 101-99 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers in the National Basketball Association Wednesday night.

He made the victory possible during two clutch situations. In the first, he snapped a 97-97 tie with a jump shot and then scored the final basket of the contest at 1:01 after the 76ers tied it at 99-99.

"Both times we went to Tomjanovich," explained Egan. "He is a great clutch shooter."

Tom VanArsdale scored 19 points for the 76ers, who trailed 55-47 at the half. In other NBA games, Phoenix defeated Atlanta 116-113, New York topped Capital 92-81, Detroit beat Milwaukee 106-92, Kansas City-Omaha whipped Boston 109-97 and Buffalo downed Seattle 115-111.

Suns 116, Hawks 113
Keith Erickson, who finished with 23 points, hit two field goals within seven seconds late in the fourth quarter for the Suns. One of his baskets with 2:08 left gave Phoenix a 108-104 lead and a 15-forty seconds later made it 110-104.

Pete Maravich of Atlanta had game scoring honors with 33 points.

Knicks 92, Bullets 81
Henry Bibby came off the bench to toss in eight points late in the final quarter, helping the Knicks extinguish a Capital rally and post their ninth triumph in the last 10 games.

Walt Frazier led the Knicks with 25 points.

WHA plans to move club to Baltimore

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The World Hockey Association stages its second All-Star Game tonight at St. Paul Civic Center with some interesting revelations about the 1974-75 make-up of the league.

First, word has leaked that the Jersey Knights franchise, now controlled by the league, will be located at Baltimore next season.

Dennis Murphy, league president, would only say the Jersey case has been decided but that an announcement will not be made until the end of the current season.

But it so happened the Knights were called to a team meeting before the All-Star break, and informed of the league's plans.

"We were told that the club will be at Baltimore next season," said Andre Lacroix, the 1972-73 WHA scoring champion who will play for the East tonight.

The league took control of the franchise in November and moved it to Cherry Hill, N.J., from New York.

"I can only say now that the matter has been resolved and that the team will remain in Jersey until the end of the season," Murphy said after WHA owners completed the first of two days of meetings Wednesday.

Murphy did indicate that the WHA was strongly considering a three division, 15-team operation for the 1974-75 season with Indianapolis, Phoenix and Cincinnati the new teams.

Murphy disclosed that the major point of discussion at the meetings was the sale by Leonard Bloom of the Los Angeles Sharks.

The sale is subject to league approval, Murphy said. Neither terms of the sale nor the purchasing group was identified.

The Indianapolis and Phoenix officials would conduct their preliminary expansion draft Thursday morning. Further drafting by the Tim Ecclestone was dealt away by Detroit to Toronto earlier this season and there's no greater satisfaction for any athlete than to come back to haunt his ex-employers.

That's what Ecclestone did Wednesday night, scoring his third and fourth goals of the National Hockey League season and spurring Toronto to a come-from-behind 4-3 victory over the Red Wings.

Elsewhere in the NHL, Chicago ripped the New York Islanders 5-1, Minnesota downed Pittsburgh 8-4, St. Louis stunned Montreal 8-4 and California trimmed Los Angeles 5-2.

Ecclestone's slow start this season prompted the Red Wings to swap him to the Maple Leafs in exchange for Pierre Jarry. The change in uniform didn't seem to benefit him until Wednesday when Detroit showed up to play the Leafs.

The Red Wings took the early lead with a pair of first period goals by Henry Boucha and Billy Collins and another by Guy Charron that made it 3-0 early in the second. Then Ecclestone started Toronto's comeback with his third goal of the season. Rookie defenseman Bob Neely made it 3-2 and Ecclestone tied the score early in the third period.

It stayed 3-3 until Inge Hammarstrom connected with less than five minutes left in the game for Toronto's winner.

Black Hawks 5, Islanders 1
Jim Pappin contributed his 10th and 11th goals of the season to Chicago's victory over New York which moved the Hawks to within one point of first place Philadelphia in the NHL West.

North Stars 8, Penguins 4
Minnesota erupted for three goals in just over two minutes of the second period to wipe out Pittsburgh. The loss extended Pittsburgh's winless string to eight games.

Blues 4, Canadiens 4
St. Louis got two goals apiece from Garry Unger and Wayne Merrick to score its most lopsided victory over the Canadiens in seven seasons.

Seals 5, Kings 2
California erupted for four goals in the third period to end a 10-game winless streak. Walt McKechnie poked in a rebound to tie it for the Seals at 6:21 and Craig Patrick snapped the tie three minutes later.

Reggie Leach and Stan Gilbertson completed the California scoring.

Rating is Badger reward

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — University of Wisconsin basketball coach John Powless said Wednesday the 17th ranking his Badgers received in this week's Associated Press poll was reward for his players' early season efforts.

"We're happy for our players," Powless said. "We're hopeful they can stay up there."

The Badgers, 7-1, suffered their only defeat last week, in overtime to sixth-ranked Marquette.

But Powless said it was too early to look toward the Feb. 5 return match with the Warriors.

"We've got quite a few games between now and then," he said.

The Badgers open their Big Ten season against Northwestern Saturday in Madison.

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Saddled with the distinction of being the only team without a basketball title in the Big Ten's modern era, Northwestern hired Coach Tex Winter and already the results are encouraging.

Last season the Wildcats finished last in the Big Ten with a 2-12 Big Ten record and were 519 over all. Northwestern already has matched that total with five triumphs in nine starts.

Two of Northwestern's four losses have been to Notre Dame and Marquette, a pair of ranked and undefeated powers, and the other two came in the Marshall Holiday Tournament by a combined total of three points.

Winter, who compiled a brilliant 20-year record at Marquette, Kansas State and Washington before a brief fling with the pros, has put together Northwestern's fine start without top rebounders Jim Wallace and Greg Wells who ran into scholastic difficulties.

Without Wallace and Wells, both of whom Winter hopes to have back next season, Winter shifted 6-foot-8 Bryan Ashbaugh to pivot and has leaned heavily on freshmen Bill McKinney and Brad Cartwright along with Willie Williams, a junior college transfer.

Winter made his Northwestern debut against Ohio University at Athens and came off with an 83-81 victory.

"That was a big one," he said, "winning on the road against a good team. It gave us confidence. Confidence is a big thing and is usually lacking in a losing situation."

A "losing situation" is putting it mildly. The Wildcats have finished in the conference basement three years running and have not won a championship in the Big Ten's modern era which began with the 1939-40 season.

Way back in 1931 Northwestern won the championship and two years later shared the Big Ten title with Ohio State.

"We've had a good schedule from the standpoint of trying to rebuild a program," said Winter. "We gave Notre Dame a good game for a while and it gave us experience. Marquette was another good ball club. We played them a good, tough game where they couldn't let up."

Winter, who in 15 years posted a tremendous record of 262-117 at Kansas State, considers his chances of building a winner at Northwestern "excellent" despite Northwestern's rigid scholastic requirements.

"The key is to recruit the outstanding student-athlete. If we get two or three a year, we're on our way."

For the present, Winter is relying on Williams, McKinney and Ashbaugh while gradually working in Cartwright.

Northwestern's next game is at Wisconsin Saturday in a Big Ten opener and the Wildcats then come home to face Purdue. Winter considers Wisconsin, Purdue and Indiana's defending champions the teams to beat.

Forrest Gregg eyes Cleveland offer

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns of the National Football League reportedly have offered an offensive line coaching job to Forrest Gregg, who now is on the San Diego Chargers' staff.

Club sources said Wednesday a decision is expected from Gregg this week.

The Browns already have hired Dick Wood, former New York Jets quarterback, as their new coach for the over-all offense.

Dinner remains clue to latest lizard feature

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) —Scientists had to stir around in the stomach of a lizard preserved 75 years to come up with the latest attraction at the Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum here.

The Ditmars Horned Lizard was discovered in the desert of Sonora, Mexico, in 1897 by Raymond Ditmars, curator of reptiles at the New York Zoological Park. It was declared a new species in 1910, but no new specimen was found for three quarters of a century.

Then M.D. Robinson of the University of Arizona combined records of an 1890 lizard-collecting expedition with clues taken from the stomach of one of the preserved reptiles.

Identification of ingested grasses, pebbles and insect remains helped scientists pinpoint the creature's habitat and rediscover the ditmars population.

"This is the first time this species has ever been displayed publicly," said Mervin W. Larson, museum director.

Sheikdom buying fighter jets

By FRED S. HODFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — A small Persian Gulf sheikdom, which struck it rich in oil in recent years, is buying about $90 million worth of advanced jet fighters from France, according to U.S. intelligence sources.

Abu Dhabi's purchase of 32 Mirages makes no military sense to American officials.

Allied with six other little emirates, Abu Dhabi has a border dispute with Saudi Arabia. But nobody here thinks that Abu Dhabi, population about 80,000, would chance war with Saudi Arabia, population 7 million-plus.

One U.S. official said Abu Dhabi may be "trying to demonstrate its sovereignty."

But others said "they've got the money so they want to buy some of this, some of that — like out of a mail order catalogue."

According to recent intelligence reports, Abu Dhabi has bought 18 Mirage III interceptors which are to be delivered in two years. This order comes on top of an earlier buy of 14 Mirage V ground attack planes, due to be completed this year.

Since Abu Dhabi has no competent jet pilots and mechanics of its own, U.S. officials said, the Mirages will be flown and maintained by members of the Pakistani Air Force for at least several years.

Meanwhile, Abu Dhabi is reported to have agreed to place its Mirage jets at the disposal of Pakistan in event of an emergency there. This arrangement may disturb India, Pakistan's rival in south Asia.

U.S. experts said Abu Dhabi's armed forces, numbering only about 8,000 men, are officered by British, Jordanian and Pakistani military men, mostly retired from their own services.

The French, who have been hustling to sell arms to increasingly rich oil producing states, have been reported selling 38 Mirages to Saudi Arabia.

The United States has been trying to compete with the French in arms sales to major Persian Gulf nations, but officials said this country is opposed to equipping small states like Abu Dhabi with sophisticated weapons, which one U.S. source called "expensive and dangerous toys."

Over the past two years, the United States has sold Abu Dhabi less than $1 million worth of small arms — "a few revolvers and weapons like that, but nothing of any significance," was the way one official described those sales.

Abu Dhabi and the other small Persian Gulf states formed a confederation called the United Arab Emirates two years ago after the British withdrew. Together, their populations total about 200,000.

They had been generally ignored until oil was discovered in some of them in the early 1960s.

Before the Arab oil cutback growing out of the Mideast war, Abu Dhabi produced 1.4 million barrels a day. By next year, U.S. oil experts predict, its wells will be pumping up to 2.5 million barrels a day.

10-gallon gas limit established

WASHINGTON (AP) — Energy chief William E. Simon said today that oil companies and independent distributors have agreed to set a limit of 10 gallons of gasoline per customer at service stations.

Simon also predicted that gasoline prices will increase over the next month or two, to levels about 8 to 11 cents higher than in early December.

Simon told a news conference his price estimates, increased from his estimate of about seven cents last week, took account of a new set of gasoline price hikes to be authorized Feb. 1.

Simon said the new increases would come as a variable formula designed to give service station owners partial compensation for the reduced amounts of gasoline they can sell, as gasoline production is cut under federal regulations.

Simon has already ordered creation of a standby gasoline rationing program but has deferred until later a decision whether to put it into effect.

He has also asked the public to limit its gasoline purchases voluntarily to 10 gallons per week.

Today's announcement of agreement with the distributors marks a further tightening of gasoline controls, although still on a voluntary basis.

Simon said major oil companies and independent distributors and retailers have agreed to encourage a policy limiting service station gasoline sales to 10 gallons per customer.

He said the companies could enforce this as company policy at the service stations it owns directly but could only urge it upon franchised service stations.

The sales limit, if enforced, would still leave a motorist free to drive on and purchase another 10 gallons at the next service station, but as gasoline supplies dwindle, waiting lines may discourage this tactic.

Simon reported that gasoline consumption was running some 7.8 per cent below normal demand forecasts over the four weeks ending Dec. 21. This was an improvement in fuel saving from the 5.7 per cent reported the week earlier, but still far short of the 20 per cent gasoline reduction now believed necessary, he said.

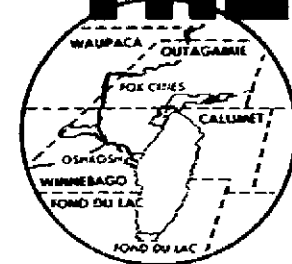

Simon said several factors would combine to push average gasoline prices even higher than previously predicted over the next several weeks.

One obvious factor is the recent round of steep price increases on foreign oil, led by a doubling of the price of Arab oil late last month.

In addition, a new price increase of 1.5 cent per gallon was granted retailers on Jan. 1, to take into account for the first

Kuwait moves to nationalize oil

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Kuwait has reached agreement with two major Western oil companies for a 60 per cent government takeover of their operations, a Kuwaiti official said today.

The Persian Gulf state's defense and interior minister, Sheik Saad el Abdullah, said in an interview with the Beirut newspaper An Nahar that the agreement affects the Gulf Oil Corp. of Pittsburgh and British Petroleum. He said it will soon be introduced into parliament and will leave the door open for total nationalization within five years.

Gulf and BP jointly own the Kuwait Oil Co., which produces more than 90 per cent of Kuwait's crude oil.

The Kuwait parliament, which last year rejected an agreement that would have given Kuwait an initial 25 per cent ownership expanding to 51 per cent by 1982, has recently been pressing for total nationalization of foreign oil interests.

"The negotiated agreement preserves the government's right to raise gradually its participation share to 70, 80, 90 or 100 per cent by 1979," Saad said.

"This means the bill to be introduced into parliament would stipulate complete nationalization when technical crews and experience in management, drilling, prospecting and marketing are insured," the sheik added.

Saad did not say how and where the negotiations with the companies were conducted, but previous reports in the Kuwaiti press said BP and Gulf Oil executives had been in Kuwait for at least three weeks.

Both companies denied last month they had agreed to a 60 per cent participation by Kuwait. The government described such reports at the time as "premature."

The nationalization bill tabled before the 50-man Kuwait parliament in December by a leftist group of members still is on the parliament agenda.

It provides for a "fair and just compensation" for the companies in return for their concessions, equipment, assets and other belongings.

Saad said the government bill would provide for "assessing the company's belongings at their present depreciated value at the basis of which compensation for the 60 per cent share would be calculated."

He said the bill would be presented as a rival to the outright nationalization bill. "The final verdict is for parliament to hand down," he added.

Benefits bill to be signed

SAN CLEMENTE (AP) — Despite some misgivings President Nixon is ready to sign into law an 11 per cent increase in Social Security benefits.

Although Nixon was known to feel that the timing of the hikes would have an adverse effect on the federal budget, aides indicated he would sign the measure today and issue a statement citing some of his objections. Nixon had to act on the bill by midnight or it would die by pocket veto.

The bill would increase the average monthly payment for a retired individual from $161 to $181 and for a couple from $276 to $310.

The President signed a number of major bills Wednesday including a $73.7 billion defense appropriations act. This was $2.9 billion less than the administration had requested. The bulk of the reduction — $2.1 billion — was in procurement funds appropriated at $18.4 billion.

Nixon also signed a bill increasing by $575 million the total amount of loans and guarantees that the Small Business Administration can make before June 30. The same measure retroactively reopens the Agriculture Department's easement loan program for rural residences damaged in disasters that occurred between Dec. 26, 1972 and April 20, 1973.

Finally, Nixon signed legislation to encourage state adoption of maximum state speed limits of 55 miles per hour and to reorganize seven bankrupt Northeastern railroads with the help of $500 million in federal subsidies and $1.5 billion in loan guarantees.

The Social Security legislation also raises the wage base — the amount of annual earnings subject to tax from $16,800 of 1973 to $13,200 in 1974. Under previous law, it was scheduled to be $12,600 in 1974.

The maximum tax paid each by the worker and employer in 1973, $631.80, will be $772.20 in 1974.

The 5.85 per cent rate paid by the worker and employer in 1973 will not be changed in 1974.

The first benefit boost will be 7 per cent, set for the March check due April 3, with the other 4 per cent coming in the June check payable July 3. Some 30 million Americans now receive Social Security payments.

The Social Security Administration said it might not be able to pay the 7 per cent hike in the March check since it requires about four months to switch its computers.

In that event, the increase probably would first be reflected in the April check due May 3, with a retroactive payment for March.

The minimum payment for an individual will be raised from $84.50 to $93.80. The maximum will go up from $274 to $304 for an individual, from $411 to $456 for a couple.

U.S. force is reduced

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Sources said today the United States has been quietly withdrawing nearly 4,000 more troops from Thailand, reducing its force in the country to about 35,000 men by the end of the week.

The report was confirmed by Gen. Kriengsak Chamanand, deputy chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, who said the Thai defense ministry probably would make an announcement Friday.

The sources also said the Americans were shipping home about 25 EB66 electronic warfare jets from the Korat Air Base 165 miles northeast of Bangkok. The plane was used in Vietnam for electronic surveillance and jamming enemy radars.

The United States had almost 44,000 troops — most of them Air Force personnel — in Thailand when the U.S. Congress ended American bombing in Cambodia in August. In late August and September, it reduced the force to about 39,000 men and 600 planes, but in September the Thai government said the withdrawal was being suspended because of the military and political situation in Indochina.

Most of the personnel withdrawn since were reported to be ground personnel whose places have been taken by Thais.

The reduction in American forces was not believed to have any connection with the overthrow of the Thai military regime in October. The civilian government that took over has showed no desire to end the U.S. presence, and the new defense minister, Air Marshal Dawee Chullasapaya, is considered a friend of the United States.

Girl held as gun smuggler in extremist group

LONDON (AP) — An 18-year-old American girl and two men arrested here for arms smuggling belonged to an extremist student group headquartered at Santa Barbara, Calif., security sources said today.

The girl, who was arrested at a London airport Saturday when customs officials found guns and ammunition in her luggage, was identified by the U.S. Embassy as Allison Thompson of Santa Barbara.

The others were identified by sources as Atler Naseen, 21, of Pakistan, and Abdelkhir Hakaoui, 25, of Morocco, both previously involved in student politics in Santa Barbara.

Earlier British authorities said they believed the three were connected with an Arab guerrilla cell assigned to attack British Zionists. Officials dropped this theory after further investigation, but gave no explanation.

The sources said Hakaoui was leader of the group which apparently planned to attack Moroccan diplomats or property after gathering in London. There was no apparent link with known Arab guerrilla groups, the sources said.

Scotland Yard has imposed a security blackout on the case, declining even to officially identify the three pending a decision on whether they will stand trial or be deported.

But the sources said the FBI is seeking two other students in the United States, who canceled a trip to London after the arrests here.

A decision on whether the three will stand trial in Britain or be deported to

The group was discovered amid a national security alert for Arab terrorists who were believed planning a concerted attack against targets in Britain.

The girl arrived at Heathrow Airport Saturday on a flight from Los Angeles carrying five machine pistols and 150 rounds of ammunition in her luggage, police said. Scotland Yard had been tipped off by United States officials, but they delayed their arrest until she contacted the Moroccan on an airport bus.

A Yard spokesman said the arrests were kept secret until Wednesday because detectives hoped to nab more accomplices arriving from Los Angeles. But only the Pakistani flew in Monday, and any others were apparently warned away.

The assistant manager of "Mr. Lloyd's," a Santa Barbara restaurant where Miss Thompson worked for a year, said she was fired because her friendship with an Arab man about 30 years old was interfering with her work.

Ben Crawford said he believed the girl was born in Santa Barbara and had been reared either there or somewhere in Oregon.

the United States will probably be determined on political grounds.

For fear of reprisals, Britain has sometimes shied away from putting suspected guerrillas on trial.

Stock market up

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market surged today in the wake of the Federal Reserve Board's decision to lower the amount of cash investors must put up to buy stocks on credit.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks jumped 20.37 points to 875.69 in the first half hour of trading, and advancing issues swamped those declining by a 12-1 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Federal Reserve action, announced late Wednesday, lowered the minimum permissible down payment for credit purchases of most major stocks in this country from 65 to 50 per cent of the total purchase price of the stock.

Stock exchanges, brokerage houses

and other securities organization remain free to impose stricter limits on the down payment, or margin, if they wish.

Analysts said the step had potential appeal for both the smaller and the venturesome investor. With loosened credit requirements, they noted, an investor can buy more stock with a given amount of cash and thus have greater leverage on his capital.

"The news caught everyone by surprise and there's been a violent upside reaction," said Larry Wachtel at Bache & Co., one of Wall Street's biggest brokerage houses. "When you get a surprise news development, the market always responds violently."

Killing of Georgia family of 6 detailed in trial

DONALSONVILLE, Ga. (AP) — A special prosecutor today urged jurors to "use your common south Georgia walking-around sense" and convict Carl Isaacs of murder in the slayings of six members of a rural family.

"Are you going to let a whole family be killed and we aren't going to do anything about it?" prosecutor Peter Zack Geer, a former lieutenant governor of Georgia, asked the jurors.

Isaacs, 19, an escapee from the Poplar Hills, Md., correctional camp, faces a possible death penalty if convicted in the May 14 slaying of six members of the Ned Alday family. Two others who escaped with Isaacs are scheduled to go on trial for the slayings next week.

Earlier, the chief prosecution witness, Isaacs' 16-year-old brother, described the execution-style killings. Isaacs' trial was to go to the jury today after closing arguments.

During his summation on Wednesday, prosecutor Alto Lee of Dothan, Ala., told the jury the "circumstances of the murders showed an abandoned and malignant heart."

His comments came after young Billy Isaacs' prosecution testimony and after defense attorney Bobby Hill of Savannah rested Carl Isaacs' case without calling a single witness.

Murder charges against Billy Isaacs

were dropped last week after he pleaded guilty to charges of burglary and armed robbery, all in connection with the Alday slayings.

The youth testified that five male members of the Alday family were killed singly or in pairs as they entered the mobile home and that the wife of one was raped and then slain.

Killed were Ned Alday, 62; his brother, Aubrey, 57; Ned's sons, Jerry, 35, Chester, 32, and Jimmy, 25; and Jerry's wife, Mary, 26.

Each was shot from one to seven times in the back of the head.

Billy said his brother and Wayne Coleman, 26, and George Dungee, 35, had picked him up in Baltimore County, Md., after their escape. Coleman is a half-brother of the Isaacs.

He said no one was in Jerry Alday's mobile home when they entered it May 14 to search for guns, money and clothes.

Billy testified that Ned and Jerry Alday were the first to arrive at the mobile home. He said they were robbed at gunpoint, then "Carl took the younger man in the back bedroom and Wayne

Dollar gains in Europe

LONDON (AP) — The United States dollar climbed to a record high against the British pound today and rose sharply against other European currencies for the second straight day.

Gold rose $3.50 to $121 an ounce, its highest price in five months. But this was below its record high of $130 an ounce last June 5.

Dealers attributed the continuing increase in the price of gold to a widespread belief that the Arab oil nations might demand payment for their oil exports in gold rather than foreign currencies.

They said the dollar's strength was based on indications that the United States, because of its sizable domestic production of oil, would suffer least among the major nations from the recent sharp increases in oil prices.

The pound opened today at $2.2845, an all-time low, after closing Wednesday at $2.3050. Its previous low was recorded on Dec. 11, when it slumped to $2.3070 under pressure of the still unresolved labor disputes in the coal mines and on the railroads.

The pound was firm, however, against European currencies.

The dollar rose nearly 4 pfennigs in Frankfurt, buying 2.7940 marks after closing Wednesday at 2.7550.

Ice glazes wide area of nation

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ice storms crippled areas from central Texas to Pennsylvania today with snow to the north and rain and drizzle spread to the south.

At least seven persons died in traffic accidents attributed to icy conditions in Tennessee. Ice up to an inch coated western sections of the state.

The Memphis Fire Department was swamped with calls for ambulance service Wednesday from people who suffered falls on the ice. Some power lines were down and schools were closed. Memphis International Airport was closed part of the day.

One Memphis woman wore her golf shoes to work to walk on ice but forgot to take them off before she glided over the marble floors of her office. She suffered a broken wrist and head injuries.

Trash collectors in St. Louis balked at working in icy alleys.

The ice glazed parts of Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Kentucky and on into the Virginias and Pennsylvania.

A 15-minute trip in Little Rock, Ark., turned into a two-hour grind, and highways throughout the ice band area were tied up with stalled traffic.

South of the band of ice, rain and drizzle swept the Gulf and Atlantic coasts and northern Florida.

Freezing temperatures dipped as far south as central Texas as the cold wave that gripped the midcontinent held on for the fourth day in much of the region.

Snow fell from the southern Rockies in New Mexico to southern Kansas and in the upper Plains and along the lee shores of the Great Lakes. Heavy-snow warnings were issued for northern New Mexico, the Texas Panhandle and northwestern Oklahoma.

More than a foot of snow piled into some New Mexico communities Wednesday. Deep snow through northern counties prompted many schools and business places to close and snarled traffic in urban areas.

Travel advisories were posted for snow and sleet for much of the central Atlantic coast.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from -28 at Rawlins, Wyo., to 75 at Key West and West Palm Beach, Fla.

Some other reports: Anchorage 10 clear, Atlanta 40 drizzle, Boston 28 light snow, Buffalo 17 cloudy, Chicago 16 cloudy, Cincinnati 24 drizzle, Cleveland 24 cloudy, Dallas 29 cloudy, Detroit 16 cloudy, Honolulu 74 partly cloudy, Indianapolis 20 cloudy, Kansas City 9 clear, Los Angeles 45 clear, Louisville 28 freezing rain, Miami 74 partly cloudy, Minneapolis-St. Paul 4 clear, Nashville 34 heavy rain, New York 32 cloudy, Philadelphia 31 cloudy, Phoenix 37 clear, Pittsburgh 25 freezing drizzle, St. Louis 14 cloudy, San Francisco 41 cloudy, Seattle 30 clear, Washington 35 light rain.

Moslem feast begins as pilgrimage climaxes

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The cry of "Liberate Jerusalem" resounded through the Arab world today as it began a four-day holiday for Id al Adha, the biggest Moslem feast of the year.

Egyptians relaxed in the wake of the October war with Israel, but their troops on the increasingly tense Suez front remained on full alert. Members of parliament were visiting them with gifts.

Id al Adha means Feast of Sacrifice and commemorates the Islamic version of the Biblical story of Abraham and Isaac: Allah ordered the Prophet Ibrahim to sacrifice his son Ismail as a test of obedience; Ibrahim took the boy to Mt. Arafat, near Mecca, but as he was about to kill him, Allah substituted a lamb.

The feast comes at the end of the Hajj, the annual pilgrimage to Mecca, in Saudi Arabia, which a million Saudis and 750,000 Moslems from 62 other countries are making this year. King Faisal led them to the granite hill today for the slaughter of hundreds of thousands of lambs and prayers for the recovery of the Arab sector of Jerusalem and its Moslem shrines, lost to Israel in the 1967 war.

Arab radio stations from Morocco to the Persian Gulf were linked up with the Saudi radio to broadcast reports of the 25-mile trek from Mecca and the ritual at Arafat. Cairo Radio told the 36,000 Egyptians making the Hajj to pray "for the completion of victory over the Jews — Allah's enemies."

In Cairo, last-minute shoppers scurried about in brisk, 50-degree weather. Many shops closed until Tuesday because Egypt's six million Coptic Christians celebrate Christmas on Monday. President Anwar Sadat went to Aswan, in southern Egypt, where it is about 25 degrees warmer, to recuperate from bronchitis.

Families throughout the country gathered to feast on the traditional lamb. The government imported 400 tons of meat to supplement the two-days-a-week ration.

Watergate burglar Hunt released from prison

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — E. Howard Hunt, his thin face showing the effects of 10 months in prison for the Watergate break-in, is home with his children once again. "I'm free for the time being," he said.

Hunt was released Wednesday, but how long he remains free will be decided by the U.S. Court of Appeals, which has been asked to rule whether Hunt should have been allowed to withdraw his guilty plea in district court.

The higher court ordered Hunt and fellow conspirator Bernard L. Barker freed last Friday pending the outcome of their appeals. Barker's release from prison in Florida was expected today or Friday.

"I find it very encouraging that the court has seen sufficient merit in my appeal to order my release," Hunt told newsmen after going through the formalities of pledging he will abide by conditions set by the court.

He also thanked "the many thousands of concerned Americans who have sent me telegrams and letters over these long months." He said "this has made my incarceration far more bearable."

Hunt was reunited with his four children who live in nearby Potomac, Md.

His release and the expected release of Barker would leave four of the original Watergate defendants still in prison — three of whom could be released soon either by parole board action or appeals court order.

Eugenio R. Martinez, Virgilio R.

Gonzalez and Frank A. Sturris, who pleaded guilty with Hunt and Barker last January, already have served more than their minimum one-year sentence. Their parole board hearing at the federal prison at Eglin AFB in Florida is scheduled Monday.

James W. McCord Jr., and G. Gordon Liddy also have appealed their jury convictions. McCord was freed on bond shortly after his arrest in the Democratic Party headquarters June 17, 1972.

Liddy currently is serving a contempt term for refusing to testify before the grand jury under immunity. He still has most of his minimum 6 years, 8 months conspiracy-burglary-wire-tap sentence to serve.

Hunt has served 10 months, 5 days of his 2½-8 year sentence. Barker has a minimum 6 months to go on his 18 months term. McCord's sentence is 15 years.

McCord, Barker, Sturgis, Gonzalez and Martinez were arrested by plainclothes police inside the Watergate office building. Liddy and Hunt surrendered later.

took the older man into the other bedroom and they shot."

Young Isaacs said Jimmy Alday was shot by Carl Isaacs after the victim pulled up to the home on a tractor.

He said Mary Alday was held at gunpoint when she arrived and then Aubrey and Chester Alday were taken captive when they drove up in a pickup truck.

"Carl grabbed my pistol, a .38. His wasn't loaded and went click," Billy told the jury. "He went into the bedroom and shot and came out laughing. He said, 'That damn bastard begged for mercy,' He said Coleman shot the other man."

He said his brother and Coleman raped Mrs. Alday in the kitchen, then he and the others drove with Mrs. Alday to a patch of woods about five miles from the Alday home. He said Dungee shot the woman there after she had been sexually assaulted a second time by Carl.

State troopers from Welch, W. Va., apprehended the four five days after the slayings.

time "nonproduct cost increases" under the federal anti-inflation program.

Simon said reduced gasoline sales resulting from production cuts and fuel-saving measures would reduce the income of service station owners and operators and they would be partially compensated by further price increases to be announced in about one week and to take effect Feb. 1.

Simon said this would take the shape a formula attaching a variable price increase to the amount of sales and their reduction.

The net result, he said, would be a price increase of 8 to 11 cents per gallon over the prices of early December; actual prices, he said, would vary throughout the nation.

Rerouting price tag a shock to Waupaca

WAUPACA — The rerouting of State Highways 22, 54 and 49 out of the heart of the city, scheduled to take place this summer, appeared to run into trouble Tuesday when aldermen learned that it may cost the city as much as $150,000.

A report from the director of public works that the preliminary estimated cost figures had soared from $40,000 to between $100,000 and $150,000 sparked a lengthy discussion, but the City Council came to no real decision.

The State Highway Commission last year approved the rerouting with the stipulation that the city bear the total cost of revamping the intersection at Churchill and Royalton streets to accommodate truck traffic.

Some aldermen considered the possibility of withdrawing the rerouting request. Others were stunned by the cost.

Ald. Edsil Huntoon (2nd) said he questioned the demands of the Highway Commission and stuck to the position that truck traffic must be moved out of the city whatever the cost.

Donald Cronkrite, District 4 highway engineer, had met with the board of public works and several aldermen on Dec. 27 and asked that the city have a plan for the Churchill and Royalton streets intersection ready for informal study by Feb. 1.

At that meeting Cronkrite also spelled out Highway Commission requirements: that a 50-foot turning radius be provided at the intersection, that a four-lane street east of the intersection be capable to handle waiting traffic, and that the volume of traffic at the intersection is now very close to requiring traffic lights.

To meet these requirements, Walter Hein, director of public works, said that "the city has to consider building a four-lane road east of the intersection for a minimum of two blocks." The city also must consider installing a sanitary sewer along Royalton, storm sewers, acquiring land and relocating driveways, he added.

Preliminary figures show that the signal lights, estimated to cost $20,000, will be the least of the cost, he said.

In other action, James Stephens, 509 Sixth St., was named second ward alderman to fill the unexpired term of Edward J. Spanbauer, who resigned from the council in early December.

The council approved the 47 per cent surcharge on base water rates, approved by the Public Service Commission to take effect this month and continue until new permanent increased rates are set later this month.

Laird named to position at health center

Dr. James W. Laird, former Appleton health commissioner, is the new medical director at the Outagamie County Health Center.

He will replace Dr. Thomas Loescher, who will quit Jan. 15 after 12 years at the part-time position.

The hiring of Laird was revealed Wednesday by Health Center Supt. Eugene K. Speener during a board of trustees meeting. Laird will be paid $30 per hour, Speener explained.

There has been talk in recent years of making the medical director job full time, but no county board action has been taken.

Laird will work about the same number of hours as Loescher, Speener explained. Loescher's pay was $740 a month.

Laird, who lives at 1615 Reid Drive, has lived in Appleton most of his life. He graduated from Northwestern University Medical School and has been in private practice as a general practitioner and surgeon here since 1941.

He was Appleton health commissioner for about 10 years and now is medical consultant to the Appleton Health Department.

Health Center trustees said Loescher is quitting as medical director because his private practice and his involvement with the emergency services program at St. Elizabeth Hospital have limited the time he can spend at the center.

Speener said Loescher was instrumental in getting Laird for his replacement.

In other business, trustees voted to tie in the health center's automatic fire alarm system with the Town of Grand Chute Fire Department.

As is nearly always the case, Wednesday's meeting notice was not posted in the count office and therefore, according to an attorney general's opinion, was a closed meeting.

Nearly every other county committee and board regularly post notices of their meetings. Health Center trustees are John Wylie, Kelland Lathrop and Sylvester Esler.

Snowmobile trail marked near Brillion

CHILTON — Gary Jolin, Department of Natural Resources (DNR) game manager, and Richard Strong, Calumet County conservation warden have marked about 7 1/2 miles of trail through Roland Tonn, county planner.

According to Tonn, this is somewhat less than the 13 miles originally planned. However, the marked area does not affect any wildlife habitat. A study will be done by the county highway department to determine the cost of clearing the brush and grooming the trails before that phase of the comprehensive snowmobile is ready for approval. The development in the first year of the plan is 2 1/2 miles in the county park.

The county planner will complete an environmental impact study which also must meet DNR approval. The county planning department plans to get state approval by this month. Cost of the first year plan is projected to be about $26,520. However, state reimbursement should be about $15,588, leaving the county to pay $11,232. Funds have been appropriated in the 1974 county budget for this purpose.

Wintry spectacular

Those piercing streaks of light on either side of the sun, which Post-Crescent photographer Robert V. Baeten captured on film and which area residents may have noticed these past bitter cold days, are sun dogs. The phenomenon occurs most frequently in the winter, according to the United States Weather Bureau in Green Bay, when the stratus (flat, layered sheets) cloud structure is more conducive to refraction of the sun's rays off the cloud crystals. Summer clouds (generally cumulus varieties) are more vertical and full in shape. The sun dog, parallel to the horizon at the altitude of the sun, often is tinged with rainbow colors. Although it has no meaning as to the cause of weather, the weather bureau spokesman said, it generally is a "pretty good" indicator of approaching precipitation. "If the clouds continue to thicken," the spokesman added, "and the weather system progresses normally, precipitation is on the way." Baeten's use of a water tower to block out the sun — sort of a mini-eclipse — helped cut down on the glare to make the sun dog more visible. To further enhance the effect, he used a red filter to provide more contrast.

Energy crisis concerns Valley tourist industry

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN

Post-Crescent staff writer

The energy crisis — or at least the uncertainty of future energy supplies — is touching the Fox Valley area and northern Wisconsin, which needs tourism for its livelihood.

William Brault, past president of Heritage Country, a 15-county northeastern Wisconsin group promoting tourism, said the decline in tourist traffic to the northeastern part of the state has been noticed for several months.

"There very definitely is a decline in the driving to this area," he said. "Unfortunately, some areas don't realize the importance of this (tourist) industry to northeastern Wisconsin."

Brault said Heritage and other multicounty tourist organizations in Wisconsin were planning to jointly ask the state to match local funds in promoting local residents' use of area tourist and recreation facilities.

Meanwhile, persons in the recreation business are holding their breath. A spot check of snowmobile dealers in the Fox Cities indicated their sales haven't been hurt by the possibility of the gasoline shortage or rationing, although they admitted they were concerned.

However, one dealer said sales were down not only in his outlet but among his fellow dealers in the area. "Sales are down because nobody knows where we're going, nobody knows which direction we're going in (on gasoline supplies)," he said.

He said the possibility of rationing was causing the most concern and agreed that if rationing came on the scene in the spring, outboard motor and boat sales undoubtedly would be hurt severely. That is the heavy sales period for outboard motors.

There has been a state and federal expression of concern about the tourist and recreation industry. Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., wrote a letter to energy chief William Simon warning that a total ban on fuel for motorboats and other recreation vehicles "would be extremely inequitable and catastrophic for a major national industry."

Gov. Patrick J. Lucey has advocated federal aid to northern Wisconsin tourist-related businesses, and the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission reportedly has earmarked $1 million in such aid to needy areas in Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan.

Also, the state Department of Natural Resources Vacation and Travel Service Bureau, is directing its money into promoting package recreation trips to recreation facilities in any part of Wisconsin. Using public transportation is part of the package.

Eugene Roark, bureau director, said DNR efforts weren't directed only at northern Wisconsin, but would be available for any area which had a need. The advertising has been in the Chicago area.

The impact of the threatened energy crisis and the closed stations on Sundays hasn't been measured yet. Roark said, but the DNR also was working to develop tools to come up with an accurate evaluation. He said the "greatest danger of all" at this time was the psychological effect on people to stay home.

Brault said Heritage Country's prime effort will be printing a complete guide to facilities in the 15-county area, including lodging, eating places and things to do. These will be distributed to households in northeastern Wisconsin.

The intent will be to try to offset some of the anticipated decline in travel to the area, he said. Heritage and the other tourist associations are seeking about $100,000 from the state to match $100,000 in local funds.

Heritage's proposed budget for the project would be $25,000. "If we don't get the money, we're in trouble," Brault said.

The potential is there, he said, noting there are about 780,000 people in the area, including Brown, Kewaunee, Outagamie, Door, Sheboygan, Manitowoc, Shawano, Winnebago, Fond du Lac, Calumet, Green, Green Lake, Waushara and Waupaca counties.

Hotels will be asked to contribute for the local share, he said.

Dealers unsure of supplies

BY DON CASTONIA

Post-Crescent staff writer

A combination of the cold weather and the lack of gasoline apparently caused people to stay near their homes for the new year holiday.

More Fox Cities area gasoline service stations were closed over the long weekend than normal as December gasoline allotments ran low and motorists were more cautious than normal as a result.

Stations that were open and that were providing road service were swamped, however, as the first subzero period of the winter resulted in hundreds of calls from motorists whose cars would not start.

Most station operators were still in the dark today as to how much gasoline they would be getting this month. "We know we will be cut at least the same per cent we were cut in December," said Robert Malchow, treasurer of the Retail Gasoline Dealers Association of Wisconsin.

Clarence "Butch" VanderPutten, president of the Fox Cities Retail Gasoline Dealers Association, said most dealers started getting their January allotments on Dec. 30 and 31. "It's left up to the individual dealer whether he wants to start using his allotment before the month begins. That's why many stations locked up over the weekend."

He said he heard of only two or three stations that had to close because they pumped their tanks dry.

The big problem, he said, is that no one knows yet how much gasoline he will get this month.

VanderPutten also reported being swamped with service calls. And, he said, the burden on stations with service trucks has been heavier with the number of stations that have closed.

A spokesman at the State Patrol District 3 headquarters in Fond du Lac said traffic over the holiday was "quite a bit lighter than normal." He said one of the patrolmen reported at mid morning Tuesday that he had never seen U.S. 41 as dead as it was then.

There were very few service stations open, he reported. "We had many queries from people wanting to know where they could get gasoline," he said. But there were very few cars stranded for lack of fuel. "People either didn't venture out or they were well prepared," he added.

He noted that there were the usual number of stalled vehicles as the result of mechanical breakdowns from the cold weather.

Several service station operators also reported that people appear to be taking the gasoline shortage seriously and are driving less.

Guests will be the junior and senior high school teachers.

Waupaca shippers fight depot closing

BY FERN SMITH

Post-Crescent staff writer

WAUPACA — The Soo Line Railroad has issued an order, effective Jan. 13, to close the local freight depot and continue its services to local freight customers by appointing a traveling agent. But local shippers oppose the move.

It is the consensus of a number of large-volume local shippers that there is sufficient business here to warrant keeping the local agent and that, however good intentioned the Soo Line may be to maintain adequate service under its proposal, there would be less service.

These shippers have retained legal counsel to have the order stayed. Attorney Richard E. Johnson said Wednesday, "We will ask that the abandonment of the local station and agent be set aside. It is our legal opinion that the railroad cannot take this action without the permission of the Public Service Commission. What we are asking for is a hearing which will give local shippers an opportunity to be heard."

Rep. Francis Byers, R-Marion, said Wednesday that he was taking up the matter with the PSC in Madison this week.

"I do not believe the Soo Line can unilaterally do this without the prior approval of the Public Service Commission and I understand such permission has not been granted," Byers said. "I will support a strong movement to stop further abandonment or railroad service. There has been too much already."

"The railroads are the real answer in this energy crisis, and any cutback in services at this time is not in the best interest of the country. Truck traffic is glutting the highways. In the case of any national emergency, the railroads are the only means of transportation which could adequately handle the transportation of men and material."

The intended move by the Soo Line is puzzling to local shippers at this time when rail freight shipments in and out of Waupaca are on the increase.

Irv Peterson, Waupaca Foundry, one of the largest users of the railroad service, said Wednesday, "I don't believe we will get the same service with a man stationed here." The foundry has an average of 60 carloads outbound per month and 40 to 50 carloads inbound per month on the Soo Line.

A spokesman for Moore-O-Matic, Dave Morey, said he favored the local agent and depot remaining. "During 1973, our outbound freight totaled about 30 carloads — but I believe this will double this year. We undoubtedly will ship more by rail, will need more service and would like to have the order stayed."

"We will depend on the railroad more that ever in the face of the gasoline shortage," William Feathers, local potato warehouseman and shipper, said. "To me this means the Soo Line needs to give a little more and better service." Last summer, Feathers had between 40 and 60 carloads moved in by rail and 25 to 30 carloads outbound.

"There are many fine points of service we are not going to get, although the railroad is assuring us that the same kind of service will continue. Too often after a service is cut out, promises change. I will be disappointed."

Denial of use permit reviewed

CHILTON — The Calumet County Planning and Zoning Committee will reconsider a petition of Page Realty on behalf of Mrs. Lester Bartlein, Town of Harrison, for a special use permit to establish a sand and gravel pit. The petition previously was denied.

The hearing is scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday, at the county courthouse, second floor.

Anyone wishing to be heard on the petition is asked to appear at the hearing.

The planning committee will meet earlier that evening to conduct its monthly business before the Dec. 15 county board session. Some of the items on the agenda include discussion of the snowmobile plan, and the Wisconsin Michigan Power Company installation of underground pipelines throughout the county.

Officers elected at Stockbridge

STOCKBRIDGE — William Beyer of Beyer's Fishing Service has been elected president of the Stockbridge Community Chamber of Commerce. He succeeds Charles Vanden Boom, whose term expired.

Clem Schumacher was re-elected vice president for the third successive year and Sylvester J. Penning was appointed temporary secretary-treasurer. A permanent officer will be appointed by the new president and confirmed by the board of directors.

New directors include Emil Kufahl and Jerry Schneider. Other directors are Walter Harsch, John Karls and J.R. Leach.

Candidates may seek two seats on school board at New London

NEW LONDON — District residents who want to be candidates in the board of education spring election can sign declarations of intent at the senior high school until 5 p.m. Jan. 22.

The seats presently held by James Mergy and Mrs. Marion Markman will be filled. Board members are elected at-large for three-year terms.

The election will be held April 2, with a primary set for March 5 if there are more than four candidates.

Snowmobile club will meet at New London

NEW LONDON — The Mo-Ski-Tow Valley Snowmobile Club will meet at 8 p.m. tonight at Bean City.

Daughters of club members, aged 16 or above, interested in becoming the Waupaca County Snowmobile Association Queen are asked to attend the meeting so the club can vote on candidates.

Lunch and refreshments will be served and other club business will be discussed.

Residents of Chilton got New Year tax greetings Wednesday

CHILTON — City residents should have received their tax bills on Wednesday, according to Mrs. Merlin Schmidtkofer, city treasurer.

The tax roll totals $801,966 and includes $138,525 in personal property; $662,342 in real estate; $3,730 in sidewalk construction; $1,436 in water mains; $1,022 in sewer mains, $818.71 in delinquent sewer bills and $311.06 in co-occupational taxes.

Jan. 22 is deadline for candidates to file

CLINTONVILLE — School board candidates have until Jan. 22 to file their written declarations for office, Robert J. Seaman, clerk of Joint School District No. One, has announced. Blanks for declaring candidacy are available from the clerk or at the school superintendent's office. Election will be held on April 2.

NEW LONDON — Two New London men forfeited fines for drunk and disorderly acts this week in Waupaca County Court Branch 2.

Luben Alsteen, 55, route 2, forfeited $59 bond for disorderly conduct after being charged by city police with a Dec. 22 disturbance. Alsteen reportedly fell down on the sidewalk in front of the London Inn, N. Water Street, and when police arranged a ride home for the man he became abusive to officers and passersby.

John Barlow, 65, 501 S. Pearl St., pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated and unable to care for himself, and was fined $34 by Judge Nathan Weise. Barlow was charged after police found him intoxicated and laying in W. Cook Street last month.

NEW LONDON — Richard Sweedy, 18, 212 Elm St., New London, forfeited $39 bond in Waupaca County Court

Courts

Branch 2 this week on a charge of driving a motor vehicle on a snowmobile trail. He was charged by city police after being observed driving on trails in Hatten Park last month.

NEW LONDON — Patrick Kelly, 26, route 2, Shiocton, was fined $175 and costs after pleading guilty in Waupaca County Court Branch 2 this week to a charge of knowingly fleeing an officer. A related charge of hit and run was dismissed after plea bargaining.

Kelly was charged after being involved in an accident Nov. 22 on Lawrence Street, and leaving the scene before being apprehended by city police.

Chilton High School plans two nights of one-act plays

CHILTON — The curtain will rise at 8 p.m. on Jan. 12 and 13 for two nights of three one-act plays at the high school.

"Seeds of Suspicion" from Dorothy L. Sayers' "Suspicion," dramatized by John McGreevey, is the first play. The mystery revolves around Harold Mumery, played by Robert Marques, and his suspicions that he is being poisoned.

The seeds of suspicion are planted in his mind at a dinner party attended by Edward Brooks, Harold's business partner and long-time friend, played by Scott Roewer; Edward's wife, Lucy, played by Lynn Gonzo; Carolyn Welbeck, played by Robin Zucollow; Carolyn's son, Arthur, played by Roger Schneider, and Harold's wife, Ethel, played by Bonnie Buelow. Mrs. Sutton, the maid, is played by Pat Miller. Mr. Dimthorp, played by Allen Ammerman, is the expert on poisons.

The second play, "The Open Window," adapted by James Fuller, is set in rural England at the home of the Sappletons. Mary Loose plays Mrs. Sappleton, her husband is played by Scott Roewer and Roger Schneider plays son Freddie. Vera, Mrs. Sappleton's niece, is played by Barbara Fuchs and Janet Skarda is Maria, the maid.

The Sappleton household is visited by a typical Oxford man, Frampton Nuttel, played by Robert Desotelle. When he arrives, Mrs. Sappleton is busy so Vera sets out to entertain him.

The last play is a one-act version of Henry Ibsen's "The Doll House," adapted by Albert Pia. It is Christmas-time in the 19th century and it's time for reunions. Christine Linde, played by Linda Schneider, comes to the home of her old school friend Normal Helmer, played by Chris Desotel. Confusion starts when a job in a local company is given to Christine. Other characters in the play are Paul Krueger, as Torvald, a bank manager; Allen Ammerman playing Neal Krogstad, Randy Stache playing Dr. Rank and Donna Kubichka as Helen, the maid.

Admission is $1 for adults, 75 cents for students and 50 cents for children 12 and under.

Library to be open on Tuesdays in Amherst

AMHERST — The public library will be open on Tuesdays, starting Jan. 8. With the new schedule, the library will be open five days weekly. Monday hours are 1:30 to 5 p.m.; Tuesday, 1 to 5 p.m.; Wednesday, 2 to 5 p.m.; Friday, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. and Saturday, 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Debris and rats

Rats live in the unsightly lumber piles around this old farmhouse being razed at Gillett Street and Wisconsin Avenue, neighbors complain. The open basement is littered with debris. Rusted nails protrude from the old lumber. The city health department said it has received one complaint of rats in the area. A neighbor said he has been trapping the rodents, which migrate to his house at night. The rats were not there before the razing began, he said. The city inspector's office has received no complaints. Normally if a razing job drags, a spokesman said, his office steps in. Records show that William Van Offeren was given a razing permit Oct. 18. The property is owned by Leo Griesbach of Appleton, city officials said. (Post-Crescent photo)

The Soo Line Railroad's regional sales manager, Robert Anderson, Menasha, said Wednesday, "We are not curtailing services. We are merely coordinating our service in the Waupaca area, something we have been doing throughout the system."

"The Soo Line had planned to close the Waupaca Depot before the energy crisis, but there are no plans to cut back service," he continued. "A traveling agent out of Stevens Point will be in daily contact with shippers in Waupaca, Sheridan, Amherst, Custer and Stockton."

"Business has been increasing and we advised shippers last Friday that service would continue," he said. "We will be consolidating but not curtailing."

Anderson said that there may be a hearing but no date has been set.

School officials tell snowmobilers to use only marked trails

CLINTONVILLE — Public school officials have issued a reminder that snowmobiles are not permitted on school property unless trails are approved in advance by the superintendent.

The property includes the outdoor laboratory on Knitt Road and Scout Road in the Town of Larrabee. A number of small trees already have been damaged, officials said in urging snowmobilers to use only marked trails.

3 Knauf and Tesch Co. employees honored for outstanding service

CHILTON — Three employees of the Knauf and Tesch Co. were recognized recently for their years of service to the firm.

William Engler Sr., president of the company, presented plaques to Wallace Joace for 38 years, Norbert Seipel for 36 years and John Schmidt for 28 years during a recognition dinner.

CLINTONVILLE — The volunteer fire department and rescue squad answered 287 calls in 1973, according to a report issued by Fire Chief Ed Dufrane.

Of the 287 calls, there were 33 city fire calls, 19 rural fire calls and 235 rescue calls. The units traveled 2,626 miles. The city fire truck traveled 62 miles, the rural fire truck 312 miles, the rural tank truck 227 miles and the rescue truck, 2,025 miles.

The fire loss in the City of Clintonville for 1973 was $391 compared to the loss in the previous year of $31,158.

Nomination papers for New London seats must be filed Jan. 29

NEW LONDON — Nomination papers for the April 2 city elections can be taken out from the city clerk's office and circulated until 5 p.m., Jan. 29. Posts to be filled include the mayor's, the city attorney's, and five seats on the City Council.

Aldermen presently holding the posts up for election are Robert Fleese (1st), Mrs. Isabel Schoenrock, (2nd), Wilfred Cupp, (3rd), Don Allen (4th), and Wayne Tolzman (5th). All posts are for two-year terms.

be filled. Board members are elected at-large for three-year terms.

The election will be held April 2, with a primary set for March 5 if there are more than four candidates.

Girls lead race for 1974 baby

Girls made a strong showing in the unofficial "first baby of the year" contest in the Fox Cities. In fact, it was four out of four, the medical records of the four hospitals indicate.

Carey Lynn Sturm, making her appearance at 12:44 a.m. Jan. 1 at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Appleton, led the list of candidates for the honor.

She is the daughter and firstborn of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sturm, 708 1/2 N. Bateman St., Appleton.

"We had expected a boy, but it didn't make any difference at all," Mrs. Sturm said this morning. "We got a few blue things but most were in-between colors, just in case," she added.

The "just in case" came true and when Carey Lynn goes home this weekend, she will occupy a yellow nursery.

Other Fox Cities hospitals and their first newborns of 1974 were:

— Appleton Memorial, daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Luezwitz, route 1, Marion, 6:41 p.m. Tuesday.

— Theda Clark Memorial, Neenah, daughter to Mr. and Mrs. John Sawall, route 2, Fremont, 12:14 a.m. today.

— Kaukauna Community, daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Koehnke, 604 Park St., Combined Locks, 12:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Showdown on long trucks

The time is nearing for a final decision in the state legislature on an issue so volatile that it has been the subject of bitter quarrelling and intensive political maneuvering matched by few other controversies in the Madison area in the last decade.

Should Wisconsin authorize the use of longer freight trucks, commonly described in the trade as "double bottoms," with a length of 65 feet, on the major, divided highways under its jurisdiction? For many years the state has prohibited the use of the twin trailers. The single tractor-trailer combination is limited to a length of 55 feet, with weight restrictions governed by the number of axles supporting the loads.

The truckers this year have organized so carefully and have prepared their case so meticulously as to suggest an awareness of the finality of the legislative decision that impends. Perhaps the members of the legislature, who have been pressed so anxiously pro and con on this question over so many years, will also be content to have it finally resolved.

The political circumstances attending the issue have changed significantly this year, although there is yet nothing to show that legislators who have faced the issue before have altered their views. For example, the actual author on the record of the experimental test of longer freight carriers on major roads is the Wisconsin Manufacturers Association, as our Madison bureau pointed out recently. Thus for the first time the major voice of Wisconsin business is committed to the issue as one involving transportation economies.

That is not to minimize the role of the Motor Carriers Association, which provides the means for the publicity campaign, the lobbying in Madison, and presumably has been involved in the process of persuading businessmen that economical transportation is a factor in the profit and loss experience of the shipper of finished products to market and the hauling of raw materials to the factory. The opponents of "double bottoms" have avoided the issue of economic efficiency, and rested their case wholly on claims that larger vehicles pose safety problems for private auto drivers. That is the exclusive theme of the American Automobile Association.

Yet it is precisely here that the uncommitted individual citizen may tend to become confused. In other years these columns have proposed the solicitation of expert testimony from state government highway safety specialists, underwriters, and others. But explicit testimony on safety considerations have not been put into the record, in spite of the favorite theme of the opposition. A debate in the current organ of the Wisconsin Motor Carriers Association publicity organ illustrates.

Sen. Reuben LaFave of Oconto, chairman of the Senate Highways Committee, says that his committee has heard testimony from insurance firms that their charges do not relate to truck sizes. Sen. Dale McKenna of Jefferson, representing opponents, insists that private vehicle drivers fear the heavy trucks for reasons of personal safety. He adds that while he is not wholly convinced, he is not disposed to flaunt what he regards as the public will. What is clearly needed here is a dispassionate examination of fact, rather than impulsive indignation and political pressure.

Calley and American justice

Lieutenant William Calley Jr. has been turned down by the United States Court of Military Appeals on his request to set aside his 20 year sentence for his part in the My Lai massacre. The serious question remains: What is the purpose of Calley's prison term?

Calley was originally convicted and given a life sentence. This was reduced to 20 years by the commander of the United States 3rd Army. Then President Nixon ordered Calley removed from the prison stockade and placed under house arrest at Fort Benning until all his appeals were exhausted. The President said at the time that then he personally would review the case.

In general both the action of the 3rd Army commander and Mr. Nixon are to be deplored as unnecessary interference with the processes of orderly law and justice in this country. The former was probably based upon sympathy for a man caught in a situation which another military man may have found understandable and there may have been some amount of guilt involved among higher ranking officers, too. President Nixon's move was probably purely political, the major influence apparently in his public life. But the latter particularly has served mainly to confuse the case.

Calley was convicted of a heinous crime, no less so because it took place in the heat of battle. But it was also a crime that in part developed from much of the American military attitude toward the Vietnamese people, that they were subhuman. The military protests this charge and officially cannot be cited but it has been apparent in many parts of Asia including the Philippines and Korea, our allies. Part of Calley's defense has also been his lack of preparation for the position of command which he held. Both defenses, however, can be likened to those which try to absolve the deprived and minorities from all offenses as only consequences of their social treatment.

But is Calley being imprisoned because he is a threat to society? It's extremely doubtful that he would execute American women and children as he did the inhabitants of My Lai. Is he going to be rehabilitated? Nothing has been said about it. Or is his individuality to be forgotten and he becomes merely a symbol of what happens to those who forget their own humanity? Inhuman treatment usually just begets more of the same.

It isn't enough to say that Calley has been punished enough. Should those who commit crimes be punished at all? Officially our system of justice argues against it. What is done with William Calley, because of his unique situation in which the usual do-gooders are generally quiet and the law 'n order people cry for clemency, may influence the future of American justice.

These young ladies are Good Doers

Editor, The Post-Crescent:
Since at least 1967, a wonderful group of young ladies have honored our department by selecting us to participate with them at both Christmas and Easter holidays in the distribution of food baskets and gifts to selected needy families on our rolls. These women have never asked for special thanks or recognition. Instead, they went to work each year having reward in making a Christmas and Easter happier for unfortunate families.

This letter is written to let the people in this community know there is a group that are really GOOD DOERS. On behalf of the recipients for their lovely gifts again this year, my staff and myself, our heartfelt thanks and appreciation to the Xi Alpha Xi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

Johnson opposes Wilkie for Supreme Court

MADISON — Those students of Wisconsin public affairs with a reflective turn of mind may have noted the coincidence that during recent years of serious discussion among responsible persons about the value of an elective judiciary as distinguished from the rule of appointment, the election competition for seats on the State Supreme Court has become more lively.

Some of the state's most distinguished of the members of the bench and bar presumably remain convinced that they would prefer some modification of the elective system. Many of them incline toward the so-called "Missouri Plan," under which judges are appointed under explicit rules and then retain tenure subject to periodical submission of their records to the voters.

The plan has been derailed because it was evident that it collided with the democratic traditions of the state. The legislative politicians who were expected to sponsor such change sensed it and demurred. Thus there is now a consensus that the elective judiciary will be retained.

A factor probably involved was the trend toward more challenges of incumbent judges during recent times.

Chief justice beaten

Several members of the present court who won their seats and gowns by appointment of governors have had sharply competitive challenges. A few years ago, to the astonishment of the political community and the regret of many lawyers and others interested in the operations of the judiciary, a gentle, studious and distinguished chief justice was retired by the electorate under the challenge of an aggressive Milwaukee lower court magistrate.

Now there is another serious contest developing. Justice Horace Wilkie, an undeclared candidate for a new term, is confronted by an aggressive young state senator from northwestern Wisconsin. Raymond Johnson, the Republican state Senate majority leader, has set the stage for one of the more provocative court elections in recent times.

As Wilkie was when he was elevated to the court by a Democratic governor, Johnson is a partisan politician. As Wilkie was when he went to the court, he will be the youngest member of the tribunal if he succeeds in his challenge. Indeed, there will be those who say that a 37-year-old ought not to aspire to the court. But in a period when the country and the state have emancipated 18-year-olds and given them the full rights of citizens, traditional measures on youth and seniority may probably be modified. In relation to the total electorate, a 37-year-old judge — who will be 38 when and if he is installed — ranks in seniority or juniority with others of earlier periods who reached the bench at 40.

One constructive result of what is likely to be a more competitive court election than most is that circumstances provide the opportunity for a forum on the issue of state court reorganization.

More than any others interested in the cause, the members of the present court, led by Chief Justice E. Harold Hallows, have inspired the movement for court "reform" as they call it — the restructuring of the state judiciary that has remained basically unchanged for generations. Thus can be met the changing demands of the 1970s, including the efficient and timely administration of justice in the face of rising caseloads.

Justice Wilkie has made it clear that he supports the Hallows campaign. Sen. Johnson has shown as clearly that he has reservations, if not expressly about changes then about broadening the list of alternatives. A review of their positions on the quiet campaign trail before the nonpartisan audiences they will address is potentially more useful in developing a climate of citizen opinion — and especially responsible opinion — than anything that has been tried.

Indeed, nothing that has been tried thus far has appeared to generate significant response.

Sydney J. Harris

Thoughts at large offered by Harris

"Patience" is a passive attitude, and overrated in itself (as Ambrose Bierce defined it: "A minor form of despair, disguised as a virtue")—unless it is transformed into "creative patience," which is preparing and developing oneself while waiting for the tide to turn.

Watching the oscillations of society, one cannot help regarding conservatives as children trying to run down on an escalator that is going up, and liberals as children trying to run up an escalator that is going down—both equally, and alternately, the captives of an operation they neither comprehend nor control.

To embrace religion as a last resort is more an insult than a tribute to the Deity: those who cease being atheists in foxholes are more concerned with animal self-preservation than with spiritual self-realization.

There is hardly anyone who will not tell you that he believes in "freedom"—and hardly anyone who will not use this doctrine to repress you if he can.

To be "rich," at bottom, means to be satisfied; and nobody who is not satisfied is really rich, except in the grossest sense.

Those who are deceived twice in the same way have engaged in complicity with their betrayer.

Slander is like sunlight on a color of cloth: a black character absorbs it, while a white one simply refracts it.

A sound aphorism to keep in mind during the "energy crisis" is G. K. Chesterton's observation: "An adventure improperly understood is a nuisance; but a nuisance properly understood can be an adventure."

It is things that don't happen that stay fixed in time—like a lovers' rendezvous that never took place, the promise of which fades in memory but never wholly loses its potentiality in the mind.

The city is where people scowl at you and usually mean it; the country is where they smile at you and usually don't mean it.

You're not a genuine "celebrity" until you have a publicity agent to keep you in the public eye, and a personal agent to keep you out of it.

Everybody's against "the government" until he has a brother-in-law in a position high enough to confer favors.

The chief harm done by bad music is keeping its devotees from exposure to good music and, finally, persuading them they have lost nothing.

It's peculiar that the people who imagine themselves literate enough to use the word "inchoate" almost always use it wrongly.

Marianne Means

Ford is reluctant candidate for '76

Campaigning in Pennsylvania a few years ago, I noticed on the table in my motel room a full-color promotional folder that advertised "Notables who have slept here."

The brief list in large type was headed by "Sen. Gerald Ford of Michigan."

The pixie in me could not resist mailing the folder to then-House Minority Leader Ford, with what I hoped was appropriate witty comment. Ford responded promptly, in serious vein, that the promotion might be flattering to some but he was perfectly content where he was.

Now, at a considerably more elevated level, that is also his attitude toward the idea of moving up from the job he holds into the Oval Office. And he sounds genuine.

However, Ford is technically a Presidential candidate for 1976 despite his disclaimers. The public opinion polls have just made him one.

Not Overly Brilliant

The public doesn't really know very much about Ford. The Congressional scrutiny of him was too quick and too detailed for average voters to absorb many specifics. But they like the idea of him, the clean-cut athlete from the Middle West who is decent and steady, if not overly brilliant.

The recent Harris Poll shows Ford, a newcomer to national politics, defeating the two most conspicuous Democratic Presidential possibilities, Sens. Edward Kennedy and Henry (Scoop) Jackson. Furthermore, he not only unites the Republican Party but attracts nearly one-fourth of the Democrats and roughly half of the independents.

The result is all the more impressive when compared with a trial heat between then-Vice President Spiro Agnew and Kennedy last June, before Agnew's difficulties began to emerge. Agnew, in the Number-Two job four years longer than Ford, got dumped by Kennedy. (So, in fact, did John Connally, in a similar contest.)

Ford's instant popularity should be a warning to Democratic politicians they cannot assume that the corruption of the Nixon Administration will spill over to harm other Republicans who come with clean hands. The 1976 Presidential contest, whether Ford runs or not, will be no cakewalk for the Democrats.

New Face Versus One

The voters' message may be that they are responsive to new, stable-appearing leadership untainted by Watergate, regardless of party affiliation. Kennedy and Jackson are both old, familiar faces, but the voters seem to prefer a man they don't know so well to those they have seen too often. In short, they may be seeking a fresh start with a fresh figure.

It has not hurt Ford to stand at Nixon's side, because he is protected by his own image. It is clear that he had no connection with Watergate, although ironically he has defended Nixon on that problem consistently while other Presidential candidates like Govs. Ronald Reagan and Nelson Rockefeller were putting mileage between themselves and Nixon.

It is impossible to foresee whether Ford will grow more interested in the Presidency as time passes, or even whether he may become President before the 1976 election. But, for the moment at least, Ford stands as a symbol that the public is willing to separate Nixon from his party in judging the Watergate crimes, and that there is a certain hunger to get on with a new political era.

Reader has suggestion on vocational school

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

I read the article in The Post-Crescent, Dec. 19th, about the possibility of using the site of the Appleton Vocational School for the erection of a high-rise apartment building, wherein the question was raised as to whether the hillside would support such a large building.

The thought occurred to me: if a large building of that kind is desired, at that location, why not build it on the existing parking lot close to Lawrence Street and use the questionable vocational school site for a new parking lot?

A parking lot close to the hillside would not exert sufficient pressure to cause dangerous slippage, such as a high-rise building would. There would still be plenty of beautiful view to the south and perhaps expensive testing and drillings in the soil might be eliminated.

Don't overdo it with artificial sweeteners

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I understand that saccharin is preferable to sugar as a sweetener. However, I am told that saccharin contains coal tars which accumulate in the system and are detrimental.

I use one three-quarter grain saccharin three times a day in tea or coffee. Is this hazardous? Please explain fully. —W.M.

I don't know whether anyone in the world can "explain fully" because there is still considerable controversy over whether artificial sweeteners are potentially harmful — and if so, in what quantities.

This came to a head after an experiment in which rats were given huge doses of saccharin and cyclamates. About 10 per cent of the rats developed cancer.

The doses given the animals would be equivalent to a person drinking 300 bottles of artificially sweetened soft drinks per day — or 100 times the amount you take in your tea and coffee.

I do not know of any evidence that the small amount used by human beings has been harmful to them. But I don't want to ignore the rat tests, either. Perhaps someday there will be some solid agreement as to how much, or how little, can be regarded as safe.

For the present, this is my attitude: People with diabetes or people with overweight problems are better off using their artificial sweeteners than they would be if they kept on using sugar.

So I'd do it, if I had either of those problems. But I'd try not to overdo it, either. I'd use as little as I had to.

The artificial sweeteners (saccharin and cyclamates) are many times sweeter than an equivalent amount of sugar. So small quantities satisfy the sweet tooth.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 77 and have had tic douloureux in my face for 20 years. The last five years, a nerve specialist has been having me take Dilatin whether I had the pain or not. It seems to keep the spasms down, but at least once a year I get an attack which lasts from six weeks to two months. — Mrs. J.L.D.

Tegretol is known to give almost instant relief from the pain of "tic," and I would suggest discussing it with your doctor for use when you have these sharp attacks.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I take Diabinese and have gotten away from insulin injections.

What is the action of Diabinese? Does it neutralize sugar in food or does it allow sugar to be absorbed into the system? Occasionally I get a reaction after taking it, slightly dizzy, something like an insulin reaction. —A.E.H.

Diabinese is one type of the sulphonylurea drugs taken to lower the blood sugar. The action is thought to be that of stimulating the beta cells of the pancreas to produce more insulin.

The drug does not neutralize sugar in food, but sugar is absorbed into your system and utilized by the action of the insulin. This could explain your slight reactions.

To guard against leading others astray, it is sometimes possible to switch from insulin to the oral diabetes medications, but this does not mean everybody can do it successfully. In the majority of cases, if insulin has been necessary in the past, it is usually necessary to remain on insulin.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell me what causes epilepsy. —Mrs. G.G.

Disclosure rule on fuel supplies drafted

MADISON, Wis. (AP) —The effort of Wisconsin's energy director to gauge the state's fuel situation gets new impetus early next week when he may begin demanding business information from energy suppliers.

Robert Park, an energy coordinator in the office of energy director Stanley York, said drafting of an emergency rule was completed Wednesday with cooperation from the office of Atty. Gen. Robert Warren.

Pregnancy leave with pay ordered

MADISON, Wis. (AP) —Administrators of a Wisconsin state employees' insurance program were ordered Wednesday to pay benefits to all eligible women who take leaves because of pregnancy.

The state Industry, Labor and Human Relations Commission ruled that the state income continuation insurance plan, operated under Department of Employee trust funds, has been guilty of sexual discrimination.

The plan supplies a percentage of income to enrolled state employees who cannot work because they are disabled. But a provision of the plan says women who leave work because of pregnancy cannot receive the benefits.

The order came in a complaint filed by Joanne Huntley of Madison. She worked for the University of Wisconsin Research and Development Center for Cognitive Learning until October, 1972, when she took a six month leave of absence because of pregnancy.

Mrs. Huntley claimed that when she asked for benefits from the insurance plan, she was told she could not receive them.

The Department of Employee trust fund was ordered to delete the provision prohibiting benefits for pregnancy.

The commission said Mrs. Huntley and all other females enrolled in the plan but denied benefits because of pregnancy may bring civil actions to recover the unpaid money.

In another order, the three-man commission told the Eau Claire Board of Education it must let its female teachers use their accumulated sick leave for pregnancy and childbirth.

The ruling came in a complaint by Marie Leonard of Eau Claire.

Student loan plan changes unlikely

MADISON, Wis. (AP) —The head of the Wisconsin Higher Educational Aids Board said Wednesday he is pessimistic about adoption of a proposed new long-term loan program for students.

Board executive secretary James Jung said a special meeting of the board scheduled this month has been cancelled. The proposal is now in the hands of a special legislative subcommittee on financing higher education.

Jung said comments by University of Wisconsin regents and the UW Council of Chancellors gave him the impression there is rough sledding ahead for the proposal.

"People aren't focusing on the issues, which are the age of majority and rising costs," he said.

The proposal, known as the Wisconsin Guaranteed Higher Education Plan, already has been approved in principle by the aids board and was to be considered in detail this month.

It would allow a student who is age 18 or older to declare emancipation from his parents. The students' need for loans would be determined by his resources and educational costs.

Students would have 25 years after graduation to repay the loans, with the rate of payment determined by income.

If the rate of payment was not sufficient to repay the loan in 25 years, the student's obligation would end.

Under the present loan program, repayment is mandatory within 10 years.

Asked what was causing resistance to the proposal, Jung cited "the old fear of change" and apparent misunderstandings about purpose of the plan.

"The primary issue is this: 'Is the way the state finances students going to recognize the new Age of Majority law?'" Jung asked.

The law changed the state's legal age of adulthood from 21 to 18.

The chairman of the legislative subcommittee, Rep. Dennis Conta, D-Milwaukee, said a public hearing on the proposal has been scheduled tentatively for Jan. 17.

Conta said University of Wisconsin President John Weaver and others would be invited to testify.

Survey shows food price increase

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Wisconsin grocery shopper who can corral the family's sweet tooth stands a good chance of taking much of the bite out of supermarket price increases, a survey indicates.

The Associated Press monthly comparison of selected market items throughout the state shows the average bill this week to be about 2.3 per cent more painful than it was a month ago.

But there has been some moderation in meat prices compared with what they were in the beef-shortage days of August, and the survey showed some signs of price consistency among frozen fruit juices and processed vegetables.

The major price boosters in the Dairy State's marketbasket, therefore, read like a coffeebreak menu which includes cream, sugar and cookies.

Whole milk, reflecting a national trend, rose to a state average 38 cents a quart compared with August's 34 cents, although now only 2.7 per cent higher than it was following a three-penny price increase Nov. 1.

The state average coffee price of $1.21 for a pound of regular grind is 8.8 per cent greater than it was in August.

Granulated sugar continued its inexorable climb up the inflationary ladder. At an average 87 cents for five pounds, it is up 14 per cent from August. A typical bag of chocolate-chip cookies costs 13 per cent more than in August.

Cookies, coffee, sugar and milk, and paper towels to a less-severe degree, are the only articles on the survey's list of 15 items that have increased in price without pause in the monthly surveys.

By contrast, a pound of ground chuck this week was quoted at an average $1.16 a pound, about 5.6 per cent less than Oct. 1 and ranging from $1.49 in Sheboygan to 89 cents in Milwaukee.

All-beef frankfurters averaged $1.30 a pound, up 5.6 per cent from August but having been up as much as 17 per cent in October.

Pork chops were down 8.2 from August, although having been down 14 per cent in a November survey.

Other items contrasting with the surging prices included eggs, even considering their current price increase in Wisconsin and nationally.

A dozen medium grade-A eggs, having dropped to an average 74 cents in October, were back this week to an average 84 cents, no worse than in September.

Items whose averaged prices are little changed from the trends of the last four months included frozen orange juice, butter, peanut butter, detergent and tomato sauce.

Lawsuit filed against Randolph nursing home

MADISON, Wis. (AP) —The state has filed a lawsuit seeking $5,000 in forfeitures from the Continental Manor Nursing Home of Randolph, Atty. Gen. Robert Warren said Wednesday.

Warren said the Dodge County Court complaint alleges five instances when the nursing home failed to provide a full-time registered nurse supervisor, as Wisconsin administrative codes require.

Adamany to head state revenue department

MADISON — David Adamany, youthful University of Wisconsin professor of political science and one of the chief advisers of Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, will be appointed to a key position in the governor's cabinet as Secretary of the State Department of Revenue.

Informed state capitol sources said the Green Bay native who has been involved in the upper levels of state politics since his college days, will be chosen to replace Edward Wiegner, resigned, who is now an officer of the Wisconsin Power and Light Company.

Adamany will be sworn in for the second time as a high ranking state government official. He served for a period as a member of the state Public Service Commission by appointment of former Gov. John W. Reynolds. Adamany worked in the Reynolds campaigns for the governorship, which led to similar service on behalf of Lucey when he campaigned successfully for the office in 1970.

Adamany, 37, has a degree in law and a doctorate in political science. He has had a varied teaching experience and most recently served as chairman of Gov. Lucey's task force on political campaign financing reform. His comprehensive report, including a proposal for public subsidies to reduce candidate reliance upon private donors, is now being prepared for formal presentation to the legislature.

Sources said that he will retain his association with the UW-Madison faculty, teaching at least one course at the undergraduate level. He is the UW's resident teaching specialist in state government administration.

Trial delay again given to Mitchell

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York trial of two former Nixon Cabinet members has been delayed for the third time, while a postponement also seemed likely in another Watergate-related trial in Washington.

In New York Wednesday, U.S. District Judge Lee P. Gagliardi granted an indefinite delay in the perjury-conspiracy trial of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans. The trial was to have started Jan. 9.

Mitchell's lawyers, Peter E. Fleming and John Sprizzo, are trying a case in Oklahoma that may continue through February, Gagliardi was told.

Meanwhile, in Washington, lawyers for Nixon's former appointments secretary, Dwight Chapin, petitioned U.S. District Court for a one-month postponement in the start of Chapin's trial on charges of lying four times before the Watergate grand jury.

Defense attorney Jacob Stein said he needed more time to prepare for the trial, originally scheduled to open on Feb. 19. A spokesman for the special Watergate prosecutor's office said the government will not oppose the motion.

Mitchell and Stans are accused of exerting influence on behalf of Robert L. Vesco, a financier who was facing a federal suit, in exchange for a secret $200,000 contribution to Nixon's re-election campaign.

Their trial, originally to have begun last Sept. 11, has been delayed twice previously by defense efforts to obtain a White House tape recording.

Gagliardi said Wednesday he might grant a further brief delay for defense preparation after the Oklahoma trial concludes, but he added: "This is the last false start we're going to have in this case."

Chapin is under indictment on charges of lying when questioned about the activities of Donald H. Segretti, an underground political operative for the Nixon campaign organization.

Segretti is serving a six-month prison term after pleading guilty to committing three federal election law violations during the 1972 Florida Democratic presidential primary campaign.

More walking, less riding at Camp McCoy

SPARTA, Wis. (AP) — Summer training camp for Army reservists and National Guardsmen may be even less luxurious than customary, thanks to fuel shortages.

Officials at Camp McCoy said jeeps, trucks, buses and other personnel carriers are going to get minimum use this year, forcing thousands of trainees to rely more than usual on boot leather.

Even mass-transit troop trains may be resurrected to get the trainees to the western Wisconsin camp from throughout the Midwest.

Col. Richard Crecelius, post commander, said trainees can hike instead of ride to rifle ranges, bivouac sites and duty assignments.

The camp, he said, expects to host 45,000 trainees from Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, South Dakota, North Dakota, Michigan, Ohio, Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas.

There may be trouble providing the traditional bus and truck caravans for troop shipments to the camp. Military shipments by rail to Sparta have been unknown since 1962.

Maj. William Miller said if troop trains are redeveloped, baggage would be hauled from the depot to the barracks by truck. But the trainees, he said, would walk.

Camp McCoy has 25 buses for hauling soldiers to neighboring communities for weekend recreation. Miller said use of "gas guzzling" vehicles will be held to a minimum, remarking there may be a new level of popularity expected for the base's theaters, fieldhouse, service clubs, swimming pools and fishing spots.

Besides the 45,000 men anticipated for two-week field training periods, the camp hosts about 33,000 trainees for four-day weekend drills.

Newspaper-owned broadcasting license challenges are promoted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has launched a drive to get the Federal Communications Commission to apply antitrust standards to newspaper ownership of broadcast stations.

In petitions filed Wednesday opposing renewal of broadcast licenses held by publishers in St. Louis and Des Moines, the Justice Department argued that "promotion of competitive conditions in the dissemination of news and advertising" should be an important objective in FCC licensing decisions.

The department said renewal of the St. Louis and Des Moines licenses "would be inconsistent with the public interest since the renewal would perpetuate the high degree of concentration."

Broadcast licenses must be renewed every three years. Many major daily newspapers also own radio and television stations.

The Justice Department urged the FCC to deny renewal of the broadcast licenses held by Pulitzer Publishing Co. and Newhouse Broadcast Corp. in St. Louis and by Cowles Communications, Inc. in Des Moines.

Spokesmen for Pulitzer and Cowles would not comment on the petitions. Representatives for Newhouse could not be reached.

In addition to publishing the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Pulitzer operates KSD-TV and KSD-AM. Newhouse publishes the St. Louis Globe-Democrat and operates KTVI-TV.

The petition estimated the two publishing firms receive approximately 80 per cent of the advertising revenue in the St. Louis area. It called the situation "contrary to antitrust policy" and said it "implies a two-firm domination of the sources of local news and opinion in a community of over a million and a half, a domination whose renewal cannot be said to be in the public interest."

The department said the FCC cannot renew the licenses without determining that the ownership situation "is consistent with antitrust law and policy or, if not, is as nearly consistent with it as possible."

The Justice Department petition said that in Des Moines members of the Cowles family control the only newspapers and that Cowles Communications, Inc., owns the largest area television station in terms of audience, the largest AM radio station and an FM station.

The petition estimated that those properties bring Cowles "more than 80 per cent of the local advertising business in the Des Moines metropolitan area."

ABA says ex-felons should vote

WASHINGTON (AP) —The American Bar Association has told the Supreme Court that prohibiting ex-felons from voting is unconstitutional.

The ABA stand came in a friend-of-the-court brief received Wednesday in a California voting rights case now under consideration by the court.

Ex-felons should be protected by the 14th Amendment guarantees of equal protection, read the brief signed by ABA president Chesterfield Smith and other members of the lawyers' organization.

"Whatever special considerations may exist for felons still under sentence, both the constitutional priority for protection of voting rights and the language of the equal protection clause warrant no exception for discharged ex-offender citizens," said the ABA.

"Such disenfranchisement cannot be shown to serve any significant rehabilitative purpose," the ABA said. "Indeed, it has been the near unanimous position of correctional administrators, study commissions, law reform codes and students of penology that restoration of ... civil rights serves ... offender rehabilitation that is now a basic tenet of every state correctional system."

The ABA filed its brief in a case appealing a California Supreme Court decision that struck down a state ban on ex-felon voting. County officials appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court to preserve the ban.

British tiff about miners

LONDON (AP) —Representatives of the coal miners and the National Coal Board argued for 90 minutes about how long it takes a miner to shower and dress but failed to produce a compromise that could end the miners' slowdown and the British economic crisis it is causing.

The negotiators were seeking a way to pay the miners more money without breaching Prime Minister Edward Heath's anti-inflation ceiling on raises. The proposal was to keep the increase in base pay within the guidelines and make up the difference with pay for "waiting time" — the time the miners spend putting on their work clothes, going underground to the coal, returning from it, showering and putting on street clothes.

At the talks Wednesday, officials of the National Coal Board said their research with stop watches in several mines showed that seven minutes is ample time for a shower. But miners' union president Joe Gormley said the union made no allowances for removing coal dust from the eyes, nose and ears.

The miners have refused to accept a base pay increase that would raise their average weekly wage from $98.40 to $112.80, which would conform to the government's limits.

The miners' refusal to work weekends and overtime unless their pay demands are met has cut coal production 30 per cent, threatening the country with a serious power shortage. To save the coal-generated electricity, the government put nonessential industries on a three-day work week this week.

The cutback threatens up to 15 million of Britain's 25 million workers with the loss of up to 40 per cent of their wages. But a poll taken by the London Evening News ran 10 to 8 in favor of the miners, with 222 persons saying they should hold out and 178 in favor of their returning to normal operations.

Jewish teachers seek holiday pay

MADISON, Wis. (AP) —A dispute on whether Jewish teachers should be allowed time off to observe holy days was sent back to the hearing stage Wednesday by a state commission.

The Industry, Labor and Human Relations Commission said more evidence is required before the question can be decided.

Four Madison public school teachers filed a complaint two years ago, saying they had been discriminated against because they were not allowed time off with pay for Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur.

A hearing examiner reviewed the case and recommended that Jewish teachers be allowed to use their personal leave days for the holy days.

School administrators contended that two personal leave days provided in the teaching contract could only be used for legal proceedings such as court appearances, real estate closings and adoptions.

Heart attack claims singer Tex Ritter

By ALAN WILSON
 Associated Press Writer
 NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) —Tex Ritter, a towering figure in country and Western music, is dead of a heart attack at 67.

Ritter, who ranked with such greats as Roy Acuff, Ernest Tubb and the late Hank Williams, collapsed while visiting a member of his band at the Nashville jail Wednesday night.

He was rushed to Baptist Hospital, where his doctor said he died of a "massive, sudden heart attack."

Ritter had gone to the jail to visit Jack Watkins, who was locked up Tuesday night on a charge of failure to pay alimony.

The biggest hits for the softspoken Ritter were the movie theme "High Noon," "Wayward Wind," "You Are My Sunshine," "Boll Weevil" and "Hillbilly Heaven."

Among Ritter's 78 film credits were starring roles in such movies as "Sing, Cowboy, Sing," "Marshal of Gunsmoke," "The Old Chisholm Trail" and "Song of the Gringo," his first film.

He also had television roles in Westerns such as "The Rebel" and "Zane Grey Theater."

Although Ritter did not appear as an actor in the film "High Noon," a Western suspense thriller starring Gary Cooper, he sang the haunting ballad that played throughout the movie. Cooper won the 1952 Oscar as best actor for his role in the production.

Ritter's interest in politics led him into the Republican primary for the U.S. Senate in Tennessee in 1970. He was defeated by Rep. William E.

Brock III, who went on to unseat Democrat Albert Gore.

Ritter's singing career began 40 years ago when he was paid $100 to record four songs, including the country standard "Rye Whiskey."

In 1964, he was inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame, only the second living person to be so honored.

ELLENSBURG, Wash. (AP) —Fourteen persons have been injured in a pile-up of some 40 cars in wind-whipped snow on Interstate 90.

The highway was closed for more than six hours after the incident occurred Wednesday 100 miles southeast of Seattle, and traffic was confined to one lane in each direction on the main route between western and eastern Washington today.

The State Patrol said motorists quickly found themselves in the midst of extremely high wind and swirling snow as they topped the crest of a 2,500-foot plateau.

"Suddenly there was zero visibility. I slowed down and stopped, got out, and was almost immediately hit by another car," recalled motorist Norm Seilstad of Federal Way, Wash.

Another motorist, Joe Egan of Maltby, Wash., said: "Everything was okay until we came over the crest of the hill and then we couldn't see anything until we were right in the middle of the accident."

Egan said his car was hit twice by other cars before he ran with his wife and baby to safety in a nearby roadside rest area.

Sheriff's officers using four-wheel-drive vehicles rescued stranded motorists and drove them here for emergency lodging.

Born Maurice Woodward Ritter at Murvaul, Tex., a community of only 123, Ritter never gave up his love for cowboy clothes. His standard attire was a Western outfit and a 10-gallon cowboy hat.

He made his debut as a singing cowboy in Western films in 1936, following the trend set by Gene Autry. During the 1940s, he was recognized as one of the top 10 Western box office stars.

In 1938, while acting, he met and married Dorothy Fay. They later acted together in five movies, and they had two sons.

His efforts in promoting country music earned him the presidency of the Country Music Association. He also was a former chairman of the National Committee for Recording Artists.

Only three weeks ago today, Ritter presented one of two copies of a narrative album to President Nixon for his help in promoting country music.

The other copy of the album — which is composed of speeches by Nixon and narration by Ritter — is in the Country Music Hall of Fame.

On learning of Ritter's death, Autry portrayed him as "a fine man, a fine artist and a great American.... He was a real leader."

"To many people he was king," said Lester Flatt, the bluegrass-country guitarist, of the death of his friend of 25 years.
